Closest Approach to Big War Since Korea

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON (AP) — The United States appears facing its closest approach to a general war in Asia since the close of hostilities in Korea in 1953. President Johnson has appointed his highest-ranking soldier to take charge in the hottest of the Asian hot spots — South Viet Nam. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor knows his way around in these parts, and there is no doubt he is coming primarily to head a war effort that could lead to a head-on collision with Peking or even Moscow. It seems unlikely Taylor's appointment will result in major immediate changes in the balance and organization of U.S. support efforts here. Since 1961, the involvement of U.S. manpower in Viet Nam has been overwhelmingly military — especially at the working level, in the field. With some small anticipated increases, U.S. civilian field workers will number a little more than 200 men and women. Of these, roughly 150 are field representatives of the U.S. aid

'Taylor Won't Win'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia declared Wednesday that Gen. Maxwell Taylor's appointment as ambassador to Saigon would not avert defeat for American "aggression" in South Viet Nam.

U.S. Bombing Charged

Mike Denies Ban on Film

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson flatly denied Wednesday that he or anyone on his behalf stopped the publicly-owned CBC from televising the controversial film on a day in the life of the prime minister.

He spoke in a noisy Commons as the CBC board of directors met here to decide whether to show the film Mr. Pearson after all, in response to opposition demands and a personal request Friday by Mr. Pearson.

ACCUSATIONS
The prime minister replied in the continuing debate on interim supply to accusations by Conservatives Tuesday night that he had deceived the House and told only half-truths about the film. One Conservative had gone as far as to call one Pearson statement "lies."

But that was not the end of it. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker immediately resumed the attack on the government, saying that while Mr. Pearson denied censorship, what the prime minister had said admitted censorship in every sense of the word.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the case should be sent to a parliamentary committee and the film's producer, Richard Ballentine, called to give evidence.

NO DOUBTS

Mr. Pearson said he had had doubts that the film should be shown, but the CBC had initially offered to protect his personal privacy, ensure good taste and keep government secrets in making the film.

Neither he nor anyone on his staff had suggested the film be made. The initiative had come from CBC producer Ross Maclean who suggested a new candid-camera type of approach.

The film was made by the CBC on a $35,000 contract with Intervideo Productions, headed by producer Ballentine. After editing out some parts to which the prime minister's staff objected, while leaving others in, the CBC rejected the film for public showing on grounds of technical faults.

BIG AUDIENCE

The CBC decision is expected to be announced today. Mr. Pearson said that if the film is shown, it probably will have the biggest audience in history because of the political ruckus it has generated, and he welcomed that.

The prime minister became embroiled in a wild scene in the Commons as he and Mr. Diefenbaker waved each other down, and Mr. Pearson accused one Conservative of "wallowing in the gutter."

DELETIONS ASKED

Mr. Pearson said he asked a member of his staff last January to "bring to the attention of the CBC" certain portions of the film that he wanted deleted.

These portions contained conversations that he did not want to make public, others were "inappropriate, too personal."

Mr. Pearson said the CBC made some of the requested cuts, but declined to make some others. On Jan. 28 a CBC official had written to the prime minister, asking him to set

Brian Shaw, 22, Obed, Victoria high school student, was swimming with friends at the time.

LIVE BOMB

The bomb is believed to have been live and dangerous.

The bomb was taken to the RCN diving school at Colwood by Lieut.-Cmdr. Earl Thompson and Lt. John Roland.

THREAT TO CHILDREN

Lieut. Cmdr. Ward Palmer, officer in charge of the diving school, warned that anyone who has bombs or cartridges or shells, dangerous explosives of any kind, should not unload them in the bush, under bridges or on beaches, but should inform the police or the navy.

"One of the main dangers of disposing casually of such material is that they get into the hands of playing or exploring children," he said.

Mac-Powell Dispute

UNIONS THREATEN MASS SLOWDOWN

A work-to-rule policy which likely will mean a mass slowdown of all MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. operations in B.C. was recommended at a big labor meeting in Vancouver yesterday, the Colonist learned last night.

Representatives of every union having a contract with the giant lumber firm chose the slowdown as one of five steps aimed at forcing the company into settling its 37-day-old office workers' strike in the Alberni Valley.

GENERAL STRIKE OUT

The meeting in the Vancouver IWA hall decided not to call a general strike against Mac-Powell or recommend extension of the strike to other divisions.

The Colonist learned this stand was taken for fear of action against the unions under B.C. labor legislation.

The meeting was called by Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, after a recent conference involving Mr. O'Neal and other provincial labor leaders in Nanaimo.

The slowdown would involve 8,000 workers in a pulp mill at Harmac, sawmills in Comox, Vancouver and New Westminster, plywood plant in Vancouver, shingle mill in Burnaby and many scattered logging operations.

The other four steps: 1. Curtailment of all overtime at Mac-Powell operations. 2. Establishment of a panel of speakers to go throughout B.C. to give the unions' stand on the office strike and its key issue, union security.

3. A one-day emergency conference of the B.C. Federation of Labor within two weeks.

4. A "gigantic" drive to pour money into the Alberni Valley for the strikers and thousands of others killed by the walkout.

It was understood these recommendations will have to be approved by members of the unions represented yesterday.

Speakers at the meeting said most of the blame for the crippling strike is due to the Social Credit policy of "creating large forest monopolies."

They said there is provision in the labor law for the government to step in and settle such a strike, but the government won't do it because of "pressure" from the company.

Port Alberni Mayor:

Mediation Best Hope

Mediation offers the best chance of solution in the "steadily deteriorating" Alberni Valley strike situation, Port Alberni's Mayor Les Hammer said here yesterday.

After a 15-minute meeting with Labor Minister Peterson, he said he was optimistic about the outcome of the first direct negotiations in 17 days.

NEW BID

Mr. Peterson announced a new bid to settle the strike would be made in Vancouver today or Friday.

Meanwhile, the Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent a telegram to Premier Bennett asking him to intervene in the strike and called the need "urgent."

Mayor Hammer said he wants to remain neutral on the strike issue but had passed on to the minister some of his private views.

MAY BE HELPFUL

Mr. Peterson said the information he received "may prove to be of some assistance in our efforts to obtain a settlement."

"This is another disaster, to my mind 10 times worse than the tidal wave disaster," Mayor Hammer said.

"That was bad enough. But coming on top of one another it is straining the patience and

Racial Pot Bubbles

From AP, UPI

Trouble-shooter Allen W. Dulles flew into trouble-racked Mississippi Wednesday and immediately conferred with Governor Paul Johnson at Jackson about the baffling disappearance of three civil rights workers.

Dulles, sent to the Mississippi capital by President Johnson, met with the governor "to discuss law enforcement," while heavily-armed posse searched for the missing trio.

The search was halted by a late afternoon thunderstorm and recall of officers to Philadelphia, Miss., to prevent violence when a group of integrationists appeared there to confer with officials.

Meanwhile, nearly 2,000 members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People marched double file on the U.S. justice department in Washington to demand stronger federal intervention in Mississippi.

At St. Augustine, Fla., about 100 Negroes marched into a parade of 300 white segregationists resulting in a tense jeering confrontation that narrowly skirted violence as hard-pressed police forced a path through the whites for the Negroes.

Tshombe Going Home

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Former Katanga president Moise Tshombe arrived Wednesday from Madrid on what he said was a return trip to his "fatherland," the revolt-stricken Congo. "I have always said I would return and now I am returning to my fatherland," Tshombe said at Brussels airport.

Birth Control Devices Favored

VANCOUVER (CP) — The governing general council of the Canadian Medical Association, with at least tacit support from its Roman Catholic members, Wednesday went on record as favoring birth control devices for those who wish them.

The council called for amendment to the much-broken section of the Criminal Code which forbids giving advice on birth control or selling or advertising birth control devices.

The council, made up of representatives from each province including Quebec, did this by passing a recommendation from its committee on maternal welfare.

Dr. L. J. Harris of Toronto, chairman of the committee, said there was little debate from the almost 200 council members.

And the committee approved the change despite the fact that some of the members are of the Roman Catholic Church which is opposed to birth control devices.

At a press conference, Dr. Harris said that the association definitely believes in the dissemination of birth control information to those who wish it. He said he personally thinks birth control pills "are a boon and carry little danger and

Martin Memorial Planned for Park

A memorial to renowned Vancouver Island totem pole carver Mungo Martin is to be erected in Victoria's Thunderbird Park.

A committee of Victoria citizens has commissioned Haida artist Bill Reid, of Vancouver, to design and make the memorial.

MEMORIAL

Further details of the memorial are to be disclosed Monday at a ceremony at the Hudson's Bay Company when Vancouver newspaper publisher Stuart Keate, a member of the Canada Council, will present Chief Martin's daughter, Mrs. Hunt, with a Canada Medal.

The council awarded the medal posthumously last year and it is to be displayed in the provincial museum at Victoria. Chief Martin died in 1962.

EXHIBITION

Monday's ceremony will mark the opening of an exhibition at the Bay of 22 paintings by the Kwakiwilt artist and photographer of him at work.

The ceremony will take place at 2 p.m. The exhibition will run until July 11.

have some very excellent side effects." He said charges that the pills cause breast cancer have been disproven.

It is the first time the council has gone on record as favoring the devices and in so doing it is joining the general council of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, two Ontario conferences of the United Church of Canada, the Toronto diocese of the Anglican Church of Canada and the Baptist convention of Ontario and Quebec, all of which have called for a change in the law in the last month.

The council also expressed concern whether doctors have sufficient legal protection to perform therapeutic abortions.

It accepted a maternal welfare committee report which said there is considerable variation between provinces on the degree of assurance given by the attorneys - general department that doctors acting in good faith will not be prosecuted for performing such an operation.

Dr. Harris said the committee rejected the idea of issuing a guide on the matter to doctors because it could lead to abuse. It was decided it was much better to "individualize" cases, dealing with each one separately.

Under present laws therapeutic abortion could be performed only after two doctors said that continuation of pregnancy would endanger the health and life of a patient and after these findings had been supported by a hospital committee.

He said some lawyers feel that performing such an abortion is a criminal act. Others did not believe that. The law needed to be clarified.

TV, Food, The Pill

SUDBURY (CP)—People on welfare are happy if they get food, television and birth control pills, Reeve True Davidson of East York township in metropolitan Toronto said Thursday.

She told the convention of the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves that giving people on welfare more than they need enables them to develop a technique of exploitation.

"There's a creeping decay in our civilization," she said. "We should see what we can do to help people lift themselves by their own bootstraps, which is the only satisfactory way they can be lifted," Miss Davidson said.

made his agreement with Mr. Ballentine for a veto power over the film.

The CBC then set up a preview of the film April 30 for three cabinet ministers—Trade Minister Sharp, External Affairs Minister Martin and Labor Minister MacEachen — and members of the prime minister's staff.

Mr. Pearson said the government never made comments about the film among themselves, but did not communicate them to the CBC. On May 20, the CBC announced that the film was being cancelled because of poor technical standards.

The prime minister said he hopes the CBC board of directors will decide to show the film to the Canadian public, "in view of what has happened."

Mr. Diefenbaker said Mr. Pearson had incriminated himself. He had shown clearly that censorship of CBC programming had been applied by the prime minister's office.

"There is nothing more important in this House that we should ensure that the CBC should not be the toy to be played with by the government of the day."

The prime minister's speech was an admission that the government had not liked the image of the prime minister projected in the film and had tried to change that image. Government censorship and interference with the CBC was clearly apparent.

Mr. Pearson, in opening the day's debate in which only he, Mr. Diefenbaker and E. J. Williams (PC — Bow River) spoke, said he wanted simply to trace the facts involved. Facts would answer "the frenzied imagination or calculated malevolence" of the opposition.

A request for permission to make the film was first made in a letter from CBC producer Maclean last September.

Later in September, Mr. Pearson received a letter from Mr. Ballentine saying the finished film would be "yours to judge and reject" before it was shown publicly. The CBC subsequently withdrew this commitment.

The Conservatives demanded that the whole of the letters be tabled. Mr. Pearson said he would have to ask the writer of the letters if they would agree.

"I assure you there is nothing that I want to conceal, and this is a genuine document, signed by the writer," Mr. Pearson said.

The prime minister emphasized that "never at any time" was there any request made by him or anyone on his behalf to have the film shown or not shown.

"The charge that we stopped the showing is false," he added. Mr. Williams said this statement was itself false.

DISCLAIMER

"Well, I leave the honorable member in his gutter where he wallows so delightfully," Mr. Pearson said.

The prime minister also disclaimed any intervention in CBC affairs in so-called image-making for the Liberal party.

He also denied flatly that there were any pictures taken or recordings made of the federal cabinet, or any cabinet committee, in formal session.

At the outset of the day's sitting, Deputy Speaker Lucien Lamoureux said Mr. Williams had not violated House rules in saying Tuesday night that the government misinformed Parliament because Mr. Williams did not claim it was done deliberately.

However, Mr. Lamoureux asked Erik Nielsen (PC — Yukon) to withdraw a statement that remarks made earlier by Mr. Pearson were lies. Mr. Nielsen said he had not accused the prime minister of lying, but had merely argued that statements he made were lies.

"SATISFACTORY"

"I suggest we accept the gentleman's statement as satisfactory and sufficient," Mr. Pearson said.

Then Mr. Williams defended his own action in lambasting the prime minister, saying Mr. Pearson had in 1962 accused then prime minister Diefenbaker of "gross and unpardonable deceit."

Mayor Hammer said mediation had taken place "to some extent" during the past few days. George Little of the provincial labor department met both sides individually.

He added, however, that if the forthcoming meeting fails "we shall have to try something else," indicating he favored mediation at a higher level.

'Topical Fluorides' Available Where City Water Not Treated

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My three-year-old daughter has 13 cavities. The dentist thinks that fluorinated drinking water would have been of some help in preventing this condition. Our town does not have fluoridation but I work in a nearby city that does. I have two younger daughters. Should I bring some water from the city for them? —J.H.E.

Let me answer this two ways. (Thirteen is a frightful lot of cavities for so young a child, of course.)

First: I wouldn't start carting city water home. You can buy tablets which can be added to water, milk or other liquids. (Follow directions: Give only as much as is directed. Don't make the mistake of thinking that because one tablet is good, two will be better. Enough is enough; any more is too much.)

As the children become old enough, your dentist (or, more likely, his technician) can give "topical fluoride." This means that a couple of times a year, a solution of fluoride is painted on the teeth.

Second: The 13 cavities indicate that something more than fluoride is involved.

I wonder whether this little girl with the cavities has been plagued with a disease of some sort. Or is she getting the right diet?

Consult your doctor.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes ringworm? Could it come from slugs? Would a series of shots cure this? —C.S.

Ringworm doesn't come from slugs, trouble, and the drug you suggest wouldn't do any good. What would? It depends, because there are at least three basic types of ringworm, and treatment must suit the particular type. (It's a fungus infection of the skin, by the way.)

South Viet Nam has what appears to be an increasingly stable military dictatorship. Its leader, Maj. - Gen. Nguyen Khanh has promised to hold tight to the reins of power. He has shown an all-out willingness to co-operate with his U.S. allies. Relations between the Saigon government and Washington have not been so good in years.

But the Viet Cong has made steady advances. It has opposed a dangerous new offensive in Laos, and has scored important diplomatic points in neighboring Cambodia. Washington apparently has decided the time for a showdown may be at hand with what it regards as the two biggest trouble makers in southeast Asia — Communist China and North Viet Nam.

Ranking American and Vietnamese officials have for some time been discussing the idea of a joint Vietnamese-U.S. military command. But Premier Khanh said recently this question would have to be re-examined if the situation changed.

He was talking about a general war. If such a war developed, Khanh and Taylor presumably would become co-commanders.

mission, charged not only with distributing aid locally but with pursuing political, social and educational projects at the roots level.

Another 50 or so American field workers come from the U.S. Information Agency and the Central Intelligence Agency.

On the military side roughly 10,000 of the 16,000 U.S. servicemen are in the field. Besides advising the Vietnamese in military matters, they work closely with Vietnamese rural officials in civil matters.

Psychological warfare, military intelligence and even some forms of direct civilian aid are handled by military men.

There are no immediate prospects for increasing the number of U.S. servicemen here.

The significance of Taylor's job appears to be in that context. As co-ordinator of the entire American effort here, he could take over instantly as commander of the Vietnamese theatre if a major war should develop.

Viet Nam

Guerrillas Killed In Search

SAIGON (UPI) — Vietnamese air and ground forces, aided by U.S. combat helicopters, have killed 11 Viet Cong guerrillas and captured 11 while searching for two missing American soldiers, a U.S. military spokesman said Wednesday.

The land-and-air search thus far has failed to turn up any trace of the Americans who disappeared Friday after a Viet Cong ambush in which a third American and 27 Vietnamese soldiers were killed.

A total of 236 Americans have died in Viet Nam since January, 1961.

KILLED IN CRASH

An American army officer was killed Tuesday in the crash of his light observation plane 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

In other major military developments, the Vietnamese defence ministry reported that 60 Communist guerrillas escaped into Cambodia, 110 miles west of Saigon, on Monday when the Cambodians fired three 60-mm. mortar shells across the border at pursuing government forces.

Grivas Offer Spurned

NICOSIA (CP) — Lt. Gen. George Grivas, Greek-Cypriot hero of the underground war for independence, pledged friendship and protection Wednesday for Turkish-Cypriots but called Greek-Cypriot youth to a new struggle for union with Greece.

The Turkish-Cypriot leadership quickly rejected the Grivas tender.

"SLAVE, MASTER"

A declaration by the Turkish community said the offer of friendship and harmonious leadership between the island's warring Greeks and Turks "is something like the friendship between the slave and the master."

"This we reject with all our might. We are determined to die for our right of self-determination and freedom rather than yield to Greek domination," the declaration said.

The Turkish community demands partition of the island between the two communities.

Anti-Label

Tobacco Lobby Rolling

WASHINGTON — The U.S. tobacco industry has moved swiftly to challenge a Federal Trade Commission ruling requiring cigarette labels to include a warning about "cancer and other diseases."

The rule, announced yesterday by FTC chairman Rand Dixon, will go into effect in 1965 — on Jan. 1 for labels and July 1 for advertising.

Democratic Sen. B. Everett Jordan, from the tobacco-rich state of North Carolina, said a few hours later he had already been in touch with leaders of the industry, and these groups have agreed to take the matter before the courts immediately.

Meanwhile, in Vancouver, conventional Canadian doctors criticized the television industry for permitting performers to smoke while before the cameras.

The Canadian Medical Association made the unofficial complaint through association spokesmen.

Memorial Service For Beaver

LONDON (OP) — A large congregation in St. Paul's Cathedral joined in hymns and prayers Wednesday at a solemn memorial service for Lord Beaverbrook, Canadian-born publisher who died June 9.

Lord Denham, representing the Queen, took the traditional solitary red velvet seat at the front of the congregation and put his black top hat and furled umbrella on the floor.

New Policies Needed

RIGHTLY OR WRONGLY President Johnson has decided to strengthen American military and diplomatic power in South Viet Nam. To many of the allies of the United States his move will be criticized as an irresponsible act likely to provoke a showdown with Communist China.

To others, however, it will be an indication that Washington has finally realized that it is Communist forces to be stopped from overrunning the whole of Southeast Asia a start must be made somewhere to halt them. And for the United States the obvious starting point is South Viet Nam.

However, if, as Washington spokesmen seem to indicate, the United States now recognizes the futility of its past half-hearted policies and openly admits that there is a very real danger of Communists taking over in the trouble spots if there is no effective opposition, it is also to be hoped that the American government has now come to an understanding that South Viet Nam does not make up the whole of Southeast Asia.

Far south of Viet Nam, and apparently out of the American sphere of interest, other battles are being fought to hold back Communist or near-Communist incursions into other Southeast Asian territories. In Borneo, British, Gurkha and Malayan troops are fighting desperately to prevent the forces of Communist-supported Indonesian dictator Sukarno from occupying part of the new and democratic Malaysian Federation; in New Guinea, Australian and Papuan soldiers are forced to be constantly on the alert for a similar move by the same enemy.

Yet to date the United States has chosen to ignore the importance of these other conflicts—choosing instead to continue its business and diplomatic exchanges with the Indonesian Republic as if nothing was wrong.

If the United States is now ready to broaden her horizons in Southeast Asia and accept the responsibility of stopping its Communist tide she must do more than strengthen her hand in South Viet Nam alone. She must also overhaul her policies and attitudes toward other parts of Southeast Asia—and quickly.

Life Savers

ONCE AGAIN as a public service the B.C. Telephone Company is installing pay stations on the Malahat Drive. It did so last fall at the request of the B.C. Automobile Association, chiefly so that aid could be summoned quickly in emergencies. By the spring they had been so repeatedly damaged or wrecked that the company felt obliged to give up, and removed them.

The vandalism that compelled the discontinuance of the service was not confined to attempts to get at the few coins that might have been inside. It was more often completely senseless destructiveness, apparently the fulfillment of a sick lust for smashing.

One would think an absolute dolt would realize that the telephone on this stretch of highway might make the difference between life and death—even his own—and control his response to his impulses accordingly. But reason seemed totally lacking in the attacks on the pay stations, and hence there should be some pity for the sad mental state of the culprits.

Fighting them however will not keep the phones in operation, and nor obviously will an appeal to the sense the wreckers lack. The alternative is to impress upon them by exemplary punishment and consequent fear the seriousness of their crime, which in the field of public safety is not merely vandalism but aid to sabotage.

A special effort by the police to guard the installations and catch culprits is to be expected. But the RCMP cannot be everywhere at once. The situation calls for vigilance on the part of all travellers on the Malahat. A licence number or a description, when suspicion is aroused, may be all that is needed to help preserve a service that in some emergencies can be vital.

A New Line?

WHEN SOME Calgary little leaguers whacked a couple of baseballs into the backyard of a lady resident and she refused to give them back, they haddled the matter over to their adult team manager, who recovered the balls with the aid of a couple of policemen and a visit to the magistrate's court.

South of the border, Long Island to be exact, some junior baseballers faced with the same problem took matters into their own hands without recourse to the law. They simply demonstrated in front of the housewife's house by parading up and down for four days chanting: "We want our ball back."

Questioned by a reporter one of the demonstrating youngsters explained: "We got the idea from TV. We see people marching in demonstrations all the time and we figured it would work for us." And it did. They got their ball back.

Undoubtedly the United States has become a land of demonstrations these days. For instance, housewives recently demonstrated at a New York crossing until the mayor agreed to install new traffic lights. Other demonstrations have been staged by tenants who have picketed their landlords until repairs are done and by drunks who have been told by police to move along, and even by angry but pacifist mothers protesting against toy soldiers displayed in a department store.

Oddly enough such demonstrations appear to work more often than not these days. Which seems to give the lie to the old adage that it will never get better if you picket.

Stiff Breeze

MR. WHELAN: Looking over all that was said yesterday, mainly by the opposition, it put me in mind of a phone conversation I had with my wife about three weeks ago. My wife runs my farm at home.

Mr. Simpson: What clause is this under, Mr. Chairman?

Mr. Whelan: Generalities. I asked her what was going on at the farm, and she said she had a terrible windstorm. I said, "I can't understand this, because John and Mike were both in Ottawa and there are no people from the front benches on either side that I know of, who have been down in that area." I asked, "How bad a windstorm was it?" She said, "It was a real bad one." I said, "How bad?" She said, "It blew everything off the farm but the mortgage."

Thinking Aloud

By TOM TAYLOR

IS it the air? Is it the food they eat? Is it vitamins? Or what? How come so many of them shoot upwards to make pygmies of lesser mortals like yours truly?

Today's youngsters, I mean. When will they stop growing? This is a phenomenon that never ceases to amaze me, the bent of the current crop of young people to reach for the sky without leaving the ground. They can't help it, of course. Nature is simply having its way.

But what a way! There can't ever have been such a physical upsurge, surely, in all the annals of mankind. Tall men there have been. The Goliath that David brought low is reckoned to have been around eight feet, perhaps, but he isn't here to be measured.

Our own young folk are, and if this human high-rise trend continues eight-footers are due to arrive within the next few generations. Right now six feet is so common as almost to be "small."

I know I get a crick in the neck when I converse with my young nephews, and boys merely into their teens at that. One of these days they'll be referring to me as their "little" uncle and my ego will then be wholly deflated.

Mind you, there is a slender rod to cling to. Anciently the reference to "tall men" had nothing to do with his height but rather to his quality. It meant comely, fine, handsome, brave and valiant. But since these don't fit the bill in my case and I am living today and not long ago this is not really a substantial consolation.

Did I not say a few days ago in this space that I was cleared I was born too soon? Here then is one more reason for deploring my premature appearance on the human scene.

But I find it all mysterious. Just the same. Especially since these boyish up-thrusters don't necessarily derive from tall parents. The small specimens of this ilk begat high-rise offspring apparently with equal aplomb.

Which means they have nothing to do with the elevation in question. It is the alchemy of morning cereals, or something.

I was moved anew to these profound thoughts when I read in the sports pages that one Will Chamberlain may be expected as an American football player. He is the high-rise athlete above all others—a basketball player who is seven-foot-one from the soles of his feet to the crown of his head. The idea is that tapering so close to heaven and being articulate with his hands he'd be an ideal catcher of forward passes.

My first thought, since in news pictures he always appears like a beanpole, was that those muscled football behemoths would crumch him in the middle like nobody's business, but then...

I noticed his weight given at 290 pounds. That's around 40 pounds to the foot, so he must be a "tall man" all over.

My next thought of course was that this is more unfair than ever on the part of the dispensation that decides the height of men. A whole realm has become the preserve of the high-riars. Neither in basketball or football is there room for the bloke who is denied this rarefied standing.

There should be leagues in all sports for chaps of medium height, about my favorite measurement for instance, five-eight. I bet they'd display equal skill and spectator value, too.

But Mr. Walt, after all, is merely a hint of what's in store for most of our families as their progeny grows taller and ever taller. Society as a whole will be gearing itself to the seven-footers if this phenomenon isn't arrested.

And that will make even the six-foot chaps retire to the sidelines. Just think of that now.

For myself of course the only thing left to do will be to creep into one of those suits of armor left behind by the knightly "giants" of ancient renown. Giants, did I say? One of these suits would scarcely reach above Mr. Chamberlain's midriff.

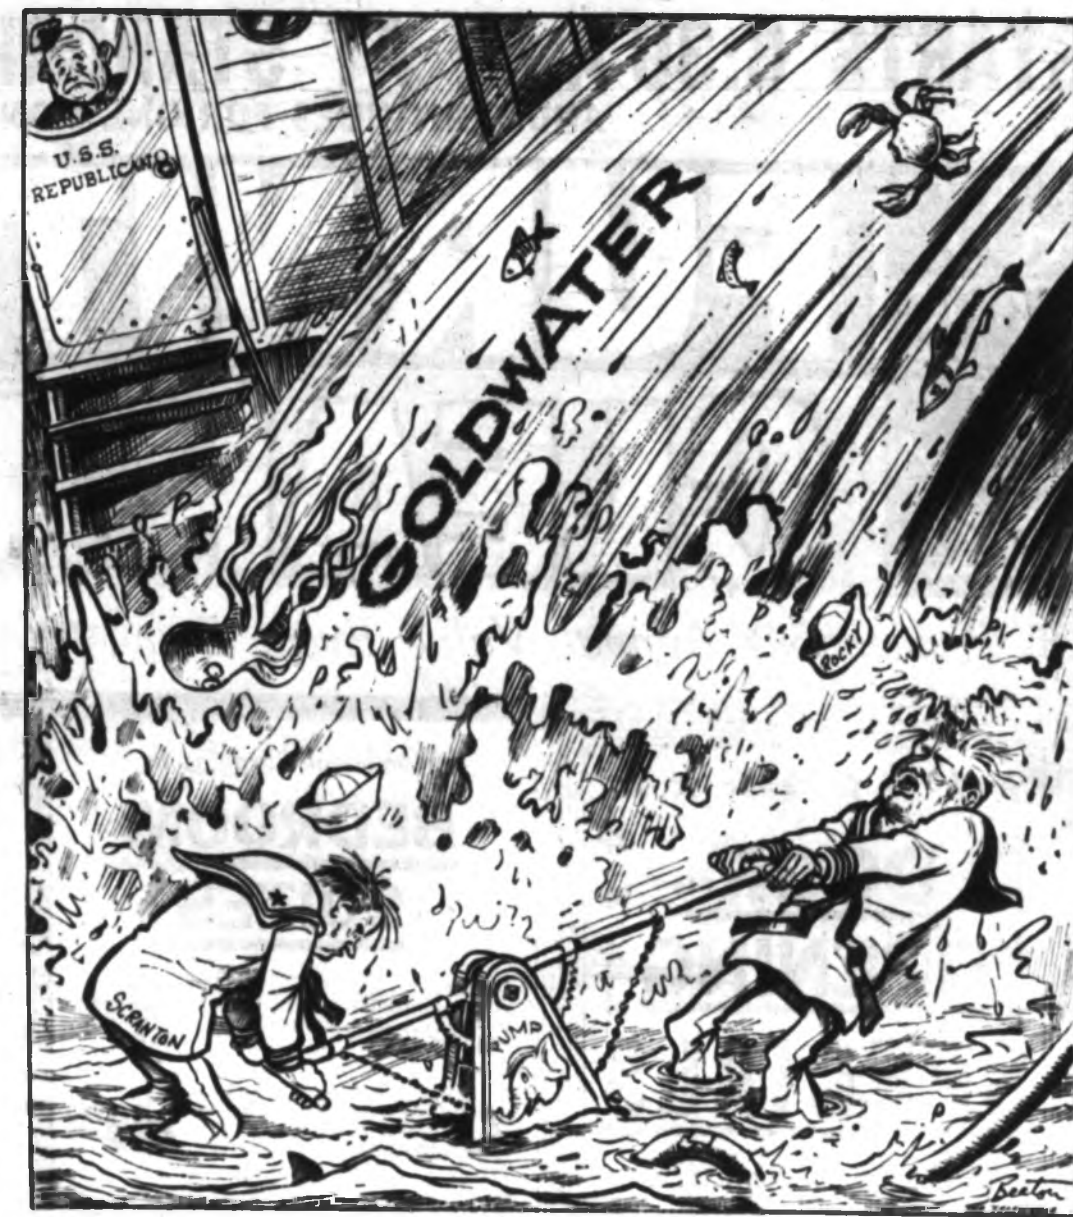

And my own high-rise nephews would put them to scorn. This in the year 1964 is the age of the real giants. Even Goliath would have to mind his ps and qs were he still around.

By The Canadian Press

German railway workers on strike for five weeks in West Berlin received an ultimatum 15 years ago today—in 1949—from the military commandants of the U.S., Britain and France to report to work in 72 hours or forfeit the unemployment relief they had been receiving. Leaders of the non-Communist strike accepted a proposed settlement and ordered the men back to work.

Opening for the Congo

By COLIN LEGUM

AS the last of the UN troops prepare to leave the Congo at the end of this week, Africa's ill-starred republic is left hanging from a cliff faced with most of the problems which plunged it to disaster within weeks of its independence in June, 1960. This time the Congolese cannot count on UN intervention.

There is serious concern in African and Western capitals about the critical new chapter opening up before the Congo. The dangers stem from five sources—an unstable government, an ineffective army whose power is now dependent largely on Western support, armed rebellion which rests largely on Chinese support, cold war politics, and Mr. Moise Tshombe's fresh bid for power.

The rivals for power and influence over the Congo have for months past been drawing their lines in anticipation of the withdrawal of the UN forces before pressing home their challenge. The period of open and bitter conflict will now get properly under way.

The conflict will be waged both in the political and the military fields. Three armed groups are involved. The first is spearheaded by the exiled National Council of Liberation which is based on Brazzaville, the capital of the other Congo Republic. It seeks to keep alive the spirit of the martyred Patrice Lumumba, the Congo's first prime minister. Its commander-in-chief is Colonel Kasongo, now in Algeria, who was thought to have been concerned in the massacre of 13 Italian airmen flying for the UN. He was one of the outstanding soldiers in the Belgian Force Publique.

The second minister of war is a former Lumumbist minister, Mr. Pierre Mulele, whose Jeunesse movement has established a strong foothold in the Kwilu province. He was trained in China for two years and his leadership is officially endorsed and supported by Peking. A six-foot chap retired to the sidelines. Just think of that now.

Justification Required

From the Edmonton Journal

WHEN the Vancouver Public School Board voted to send the entire board to Winnipeg for two educational conferences, two of the nine trustees kicked over the traces.

The chairman, Mrs. Constance Spring, took the unusual action of leaving the chair in protest against the decision of the majority. The vice-chairman, Mr. Roy Bell, also protested against this expenditure of $3,000 or so.

"We have been elected to reduce costs to the taxpayers, not to increase them," said Mr. Bell. He added that five trustees had gone to educational conferences in Edmonton and Calgary "and I'm still waiting to hear of any value to the board from them."

It is preposterous to suggest that conferences, conventions, seminars and official travel are, as a general rule, a waste of time and money. Nevertheless, those participating should treat them very seriously, realize they are spending public money, and be prepared to justify the expenditure. It is possible to think too big.

A Critical New Chapter

By COLIN LEGUM

The Americans have been notably reluctant to become involved in a fresh military adventure in the Congo, but there is a clear conflict of policy between the state department and the Central Intelligence Agency. The latter—drawn by the scent of Chinese support for the National Council of Liberation—tends to look on the Congo as a potential African Viet Nam.

The conflict between these two branches of the U.S. administration broke out when American pilots flew ANC troops into action against Sumali's rebels in Bukavu. This action was contrary to explicit state department agreement that Americans were to be used solely for transport work. The result was a showdown in Washington with President Johnson firmly clamping down on the CIA's independent action.

The Russians, for the moment, are playing no part in Congolese politics. Having burnt their fingers twice, they are now watching suspiciously the manoeuvres of the Chinese and the Western countries. They have, however, recently bought one of the few large hotels in Leopoldville to enhance their large embassy.

Another large hotel has been bought by the French who have sent one of their most skillful diplomats, Mr. Koestusko-Morizet, to handle their affairs. General de Gaulle is clearly playing his cards carefully. His major interest is to bring the Congo eventually into the orbit of the French-speaking African states. But he is in no hurry to push this policy forward at this stage.

The effect of these foreign military entanglements by all the Congolese leaders has been to reinject cold war politics into the country. The leader who stands to lose most as a result of these involvements is Prime Minister Cyrille Adoula, who is being tarred as an "American stooge." His own future is in jeopardy.

The days of his government are, anyway, numbered. The only two questions are whether he will survive to lead a new government and how it will be composed.

The new government is to be established after the holding of a referendum from June 20-25 on a new federal constitution providing for a semi-presidential form of government.

The Congolese political leaders are now immersed in a series of complex negotiations to produce coalition parties to take over the next government. The anchor man in these negotiations is President Kasavubu who holds most of the votes. His desire is to achieve a government of "national reconciliation" which will unite the majority of political leaders. Three figures are crucial in these negotiations.

The first is Mr. Adoula, who, though respected, is now regarded as having become too compromised with the Americans. The second is the shadowy Mr. Antoine Gizenga, the late Mr. Lumumba's deputy, who has been lingering in prison for the last few years. He is the nominee of the National Council of Liberation. The third is Mr. Tshombe.

Mr. Tshombe is very much in play, but in a new role. He is no longer the Katanga separatist demanding secession for his people. Now he puts himself forward as the national leader of reconciliation. His headquarters are in Madrid, where he has taken over a whole floor of a building on the Paseo Pío Rosales and the Villa Kaunia. There he is surrounded by Spanish security officers, by Katangese protocol men, and by an international staff of advisors. He also maintains an office at 59 Avenue MacMahon in Paris.

In the past six months Mr. Tshombe has been engaged in negotiations with most of the prominent Congolese, ranging from General Mobutu to Lumumbists. His deadly political enemies are the Americans; and he now has few kind words for his former close ally, the powerful Union Minière which controls the mineral wealth of Katanga.

He has gone to great pains to dissociate himself from the murder of Mr. Lumumba by carefully releasing confidential material to implicate senior members of Mr. Adoula's government. He has been trying hard to gain the confidence of leaders of African states, especially the militant ones.

Just Pyrexia

That Old Feeling

By CASSANDRA from London

I HAVE never yet met a doctor who has said to a patient: "I'm damned if I know what is wrong with you."

The medical policy in a case of complete bafflement is (a) to say nothing, (b) to look mysterious, (c) to murmur "Hm-mm" in a deep, dark-brown voice.

In America all unknown maladies are simply attributed to "a virus."

A friend of mine has just recovered from a ten-day illness that forced him into bed.

He got so hot that his blood almost boiled and he felt like the furnace of a nuclear reactor. His throat seemed to be coated with warm, sweetened glue and his skin didn't quite fit and got rucked up.

His eyeballs were apparently mounted in square sockets, sprinkled with granite chips, and everything he saw appeared to be fringed in pink lace. His hair took on the texture of dried seaweed and his finger-nails squeaked so loudly that he woke up at night and threw books at the non-existent mice in the wainscoting.

Everything smelt of peppermint and his backbone had apparently been connected to Battersea Power Station and electrical shorting and sparking occurred between the ribs.

When he suddenly recovered he asked his doctor what had been the matter with him. He was told that he had been suffering from a "pyrexia of unknown origin." With the aid of a dictionary he discovered that pyrexia is the chromium-plated word for fever.

So when you get that old feeling and your finger-nails squeak and everything is fringed in pink lace, just take it easy.

It's an American virus—or a cute little attack of British Pyrexia.

LORD LAMBTON, who used to specialize in tarring and feathering his own Prime Minister, Mr. Macmillan, has now whirled round with black and dripping hands and tarred the next Prime Minister—Harold Wilson.

So far the Conservative Member for Berwick-upon-Tweed has refrained from tarring and feathering his cousin, the present Prime Minister—but it may be that there is not all that much to tar and feather.

In a childishly ferocious pamphlet, Lord Lambton has attacked Mr. Wilson, Mr. Brown, Mr. Callaghan, Mr. Crossman, and Mr. Jay.

Each is assailed in a personal sense. With the gusto of a destructive youth let loose with a bucket of acid and a brush in a ballroom, the peer with the amber hair expresses his grimy opinions to the full.

Most voters wearily agree that the coming election is going to be a dirty one.

His Lordship is at pains to make sure it will.

THE latest Honors List is Sir Alec Douglas-Home's tribute to tarring and feathering. Recently there has been something like a rash of the titled to divest themselves of their peerages. Sir Alec himself changed gear and got rid of his peerage. So did Mr. Quintin Hogg and several other public figures. Harold Macmillan pointedly refused the traditional earldom and preferred to remain a plain "Mister."

My view is that everybody should be knighted at birth and only really deserving cases should be elevated to become "Mr.", "Mrs." or "Miss."

W. S. Gilbert foresaw this situation when he wrote "The Gondoliers," and described the King who promoted everybody.

"Lord Chancellors were cheap as sprats, And Bishops in their shovel-hats Were plentiful as tabbies— In point of fact too many, Ambassadors cropped up like hay, Prime Ministers and such as they."

Grew like asparagus in May, And Dukes were three a penny."

AN object weighing over a ton moving through a public place at a velocity of nearly a hundred yards a second might well be thought to be a hazardous business and a menace to life and limb.

Yet it is perfectly legal, as the racing car manufacturers know, when they test their machines on the M1 at speeds around 150 m.p.h.

The law permits it. There is no speed limit on British motorways.

This is raving lunacy. In the United States, where they know far more about about high-speed motorways than we do, there are speed limits generally ranging from 50 to 70 m.p.h.

Excessive speed kills—and by excessive speed I mean anything over 70 m.p.h. At high speeds the time to correct an error is drastically reduced and the damage to a vehicle and the occupants in a collision is correspondingly greater. The human head hitting glass, steel or concrete at 100 feet a second is likely to get very bent indeed.

Campbell Won Battle But Could Lose War

By IAN STREKE

Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell put his finger on what he terms the "very real bogeyman" in the joint regional services picture.

In doing so he disassociated himself from all the amalgamationists and boosters of metro government.

These people, says Mr. Campbell, are all too quick to discount the idea of any sound social basis for the local government in Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Saanich and Victoria.

Anyone who holds a contrary view is usually derided as an "empire builder" or a parochial thinker.

Mr. Campbell says he respects the people who feel they want to remain close to local government.

But he argues that there are certain needs common to all areas within the Capital Region and these should be dealt with co-operatively.

At last Saturday's municipal conference Mr. Campbell, a recent addition to cabinet ranks, made an impressive debut as on-stage mediator, stepping neatly around the pitfalls that are rife when discussion turns to such an emotion-charged subject.

There was scarcely a risen hackle in sight after Mr. Campbell made his pitch.

CAPITAL REPORT

During the afternoon session a couple of diehards dug in their toes and said they wouldn't go along with the proposal for a single executive board to handle regional services.

By that time however, the day was won, though it may turn out that Mr. Campbell won a battle and is in danger of losing the war.

The municipalities, I think, would like to accept this proposed solution.

They know that the problem must be attacked soon and realize that, in theory at least, the Campbell plan may offer an acceptable compromise.

But old doubts linger still. One municipal official said after last weekend's conference: "If this is an attempt at white-wash it'll get nowhere; but if the government is really willing to sit down with the municipalities and work out a method of operation... it just could do the trick."

The negotiations behind closed doors that are scheduled to begin within a month will be crucial to the success of the plan. It is here that the government will be forced out from behind its screen of soothing words to get down to hard bargaining.

If metro and amalgamation are naughty words to Mr. Campbell, the same may be said, particularly so far as the municipalities are concerned, of any suggestion of compulsion.

This nevertheless must be faced because obviously a scheme of this kind cannot work unless the decisions of the area board are binding, subject to proper appeal processes.

And if a municipality cannot opt out of the scheme and the government isn't going to wield a big stick then, it seems only logical, something must be done to make participation financially worthwhile.

REALLY REFRESHING! Growers' SPARKLING CIDER MEDIUM FROM THE PICK OF THE ORCHARDS OF BEAUTIFUL BRITISH COLUMBIA

And so it might be, except for two things. First, there is considerable doubt as to the capability of this military establishment for sustained action. While it is always dangerous to underestimate one's opponent, this doubt is not without foundation.

Second, and of considerably greater importance, Great Britain has guaranteed the security of Malaysia against external attack, and Britain meant it when she stated that she will live up to her commitment to Malaysia, come what may.

Unreliable Forces Would Face Malaysia-and Britain

Sukarno Can't Afford Luxury of War

By RUTHVEN E. LIBBY
From Jakarta, Indonesia

There are compelling reasons why President Sukarno of Indonesia is not likely, now or in the proximate future, to try to crush the federation of Malaysia.

Much disparity exists in the relative state of the economy of the two countries, with pronounced advantages enjoyed by Malaysia.

Despite being hurt by Sukarno's "confrontation" (Singapore being the hardest hit because its economy is geared largely to entrepot (warehousing) trade, the overall economy of the federation is in excellent shape.

The main sources of income—rubber, tin, timber, iron ore and the entrepot trade—are products and services which will continue to be in demand for a long time.

The currency is stable. The financial position of the states and of the federation government is sound.

Businessmen of the federation are busily seeking new markets and establishing new industries to employ the energies and skills released because of the loss of Indonesian trade. The steady flow of foreign capital into the federation is a good index of the confidence with which its economic future is regarded.

The economic situation in Indonesia can only be described as appalling.

The country's foreign exchange reserve has almost disappeared. Its exports are falling off steadily. It is having increasing difficulty in even servicing its foreign debt. It cannot now import even the minimum requirements of raw materials to support even the current low levels of production and consumption.

Almost no foreign capital is coming in.

Consider the state of the rupiah—the Indonesian unit of currency. The official exchange rate is still 45 rupiahs to the dollar. The national bank will give you $15 up until closing time and about 285 when your plane is leaving.

The hotel cashier settles at the flat rate of 1,000 to the dollar for the amount of your bill, but you must first convert your dollars to something called "tourists cheques." The free market rate of exchange varies from 1,350 to 2,000.

The remaining element of national strength with which we are concerned here is defence capability. On paper, the Indonesian armed forces are formidable; better than 300,000 in the army; a navy of one Soviet Sverdlov cruiser, a dozen destroyers, about the same number of W-Class submarines, and a lot of rocket firing patrol boats.

The air force is sizable and possessed of somewhere around 600 airplanes of all types, including MIG fighters.

Surely this is enough with which to crush Malaysia out of hand.

And so it might be, except for two things. First, there is considerable doubt as to the capability of this military establishment for sustained action. While it is always dangerous to underestimate one's opponent, this doubt is not without foundation.

Second, and of considerably greater importance, Great Britain has guaranteed the security of Malaysia against external attack, and Britain meant it when she stated that she will live up to her commitment to Malaysia, come what may.

These are some of the reasons why Sukarno is not likely to crush Malaysia.

The Sphere To Cease Publication

LONDON (CP)—The Sphere, an illustrated magazine acquired by Lord Thomson of Fleet when he purchased Illustrated Newspapers Limited in 1961, is to cease publication June 27.

Thomson said there would be an "announcement later as to possible future developments." And a spokesman for the magazine, founded in 1900, said the Christmas issue, to be retitled the Sphere Annual, will be issued in November as usual and bi-monthly thereafter.

The statement comes three months after Thomson announced he was looking for a new editor for The Sphere, a companion publication of The Tatler, both of which were under the editorship of John Oliver.

At the time Thomson bought the group he said it was intended to form the nucleus of a magazine group within the organization and that he was planning to take over other magazines if possible.

UNIQUE INVESTMENT PAYS BIG RETURNS TO MODERATE INVESTORS

Until recently, mortgage investment which for centuries has been regarded as the safest form of investment, was monopolized by banks, insurance companies, business corporations and by wealthy individuals. Most people could not afford it. Now, however, an investor, with only a moderate sum to invest can reap the non-contingent benefits which accrue from this form of investment.

The Trans-Canada Joint Mortgage Corporation is subsidiary of Trans-Canada Mortgage Corp., the largest mortgage investment company of its kind in Western Canada. It has introduced a new type of mortgage investment which allows a person, with as little as $100 to invest, to become a joint beneficiary of a first mortgage. His name is registered as such in the Government Land Registry Office, and he receives 7½% interest compounded semi-annually. Unlike stocks and bonds the returns from joint-mortgage investments never vary. If left to compound, they double in 9½ years, triple in 13. Or an investor may receive 7½% interest paid quarterly, having his investment listed at all times. Trans-Canada joint-mortgage investments are accepted as collateral security or may be withdrawn at any time.

Waterfront Warfare Discounted

OTTAWA—While registry pickets appeared at New Westminster, an Opposition MP has suggested—and Labor Minister MacEachen denied—a major waterfront trouble is brewing on the West Coast.

The pickets—alongside the dockbound train carrier Ss. Alaska—extended the ship's tie-up into its fifth day, and halted loading operations for coastal ports.

INJUNCTION OBTAINED

They appeared shortly after the ship's owners, Alaska Trainship Corporation, obtained an injunction against the Canadian Labor Congress, B.C. Federation of Labor and all affiliates.

Donald MacInnis (PC—Cape Breton South) yesterday asked the labor minister if the latter was aware the troubles were potentially worse than recent St. Lawrence seaway labor strife.

'COLLUSION'

He charged that the Canadian maritime trustees, in collusion with others, are permitting marine engineers from Montreal to go to Vancouver despite the availability of marine engineers on the west coast.

Mr. MacEachen said he was aware of the situation although he was not prepared to admit the implications Mr. MacInnis saw in the situation.

U.S. Army Tests 'Locust' Warfare

OTTAWA (UPI)—The latest concept in ground warfare, undergoing extensive testing at the U.S. Army base at Fort Benning, Ga., is being closely watched by Canadian defence officials.

The U.S. Army just recently lifted the wraps off the experimental 15th Air Assault Division which is testing the use of massed helicopters, along with some fixed-wing aircraft, to move its ground forces around the battle area and over natural and fortified barriers swiftly and safely.

Observers from the Canadian Army have been posted at Fort Benning and have been sending detailed reports back to army headquarters in Ottawa for possible integration into Canada's planned unified defence force.

In the Fort Benning experiment, helicopters replace all traditional army equipment. There are no tanks, no trucks, no self-propelled artillery, no walking infantry—everything moves by air.

FRIGHTENS

An attack by the experimental division, observers say, is frightening to watch.

Swarms of helicopters, looking like a horde of locusts, appear out of nowhere and race at low-level at more than 100 miles an hour at the "enemy" objective.

Smaller beetle-like choppers sprint ahead of the heavier transports spewing forth a barrage of rocket and gun fire at the target area.

While he was away, Stockholm walls blossomed with painted signs reading "Khrushchev Go Home" and police arrested a man trying to haul down one of the Soviet flags dotting the Swedish capital.

The Kremlin leader told shipyard workers in Goteborg he was "not revealing any big military secret" in saying building such large warships as battleships and cruisers had been halted.

In another speech, he said of the reported anti-Communist kidnap plot—denied by Swedish authorities—he wondered whether "someone is planning to take me prisoner."

An unprecedented number of Swedish Air Force jet fighters flew guard around Khrushchev's chartered plane during the 300-mile flight here.

Martin in Washington For Defence Meeting

WASHINGTON (CP)—External Affairs Minister Paul Martin of Canada flew into Washington Wednesday night for the first joint Canada-U.S. defence committee talks in four years.

Martin said the Southeast Asia situation and other issues will be discussed, along with continental defence.

The Canadian minister arrived from New York where he held an hour-long discussion of the sensitive Cyprus situation with Turkey's prime minister, Ismet Inonu. Martin plans to meet with the Greek prime minister, George Papandreu today in Washington.

Children Assaulted

OTTAWA (CP)—City police have questioned four or five teen-agers in connection with the beating and whipping of four young Ottawa children at a school picnic Monday.

Police said three girls and a young boy were attacked by teen-age boys.

Two of the girls said they were struck with what they called a whip.

The third girl said the boys twisted her arm. The girls were about 10 years old.

SHAWNIGAN LAKE

In the public interest, Honourable D. Campbell, Minister of Municipal Affairs, intends to establish a Community Planning Area around the shore of Shawnigan Lake.

The purpose of the area will be to ensure that reasonable minimum standards of subdivision, building and plumbing are carried out.

It'll take you that long to prove that it gives you over 30 miles to a gallon with an automatic transmission.

An ordinary 10-minute test drive is fine—if you're going to buy an ordinary car. But the Volvo Canadian is no ordinary car. That's why we're offering you an extraordinary test drive. We'll give you a Volvo Canadian for 24 hours. Drive it around town. Drive it in the country. Drive it the way you normally drive.

It'll be equipped with our new automatic transmission. A transmission so efficient that it doesn't affect the unusual gas mileage a Volvo gets—over 30 miles to the gallon. Do you know of any other compact that gets over 30 miles to the gallon with automatic transmission? Neither do we.

And do you know of any other compact that could last an average of eleven years in Sweden where 80% of the roads are unpaved, where there are no speed limits on the highways, where winter temperatures drop to 30° below? Neither do we.

One more thing. Performance. Volvo not only won the 1964 Canadian Shell 4000, it swept all four major categories. No car has ever done that before. As we said, Volvo is no ordinary automobile.

What do you say? Volvos are now built in Canada. Take one home. See how good a car we Canadians make.

Names in the News

Driver Stay Away From My Door Pleads Texan

DALLAS—Douglas Davis is beginning to feel like drivers are wartime kamikaze pilots and his house is their target. His children have orders to be in one of two places: In the house or far away from it.

This week a car failed to negotiate a curve in front of the Davis home and overturned in the yard, narrowly missing the house and a sports car chained to the front porch. It was chained there by Davis and will stay there, the frazzled homeowner said, until its driver pays for damages caused when it hit the house last August.

Since then, one car knocked down the Davis chimney and another reduced the home from a six-room to a five-room model by demolishing a bedroom.

Altogether, eight cars have trespassed on Douglas' property since traffic was rerouted from a busy nearby street to the winding road that leads past Douglas' car-battered house.

VANCOUVER—Christopher Williams pleaded guilty in magistrate's court to stealing $4,600 saved by Agnes Pudias for her granddaughter's operation. Williams and two juvenile accomplices gave themselves up to police when they learned Mrs. Pudias had been secretly saving money for an operation on the four-year-old, who is a deaf mute.

TAVISTOCK, England—Albert Hansen, a 64-year-old grandfather, was charged with bigamy despite his contention that since he had not seen his first wife for 35 years he "thought it was all right" to marry again.

VANCOUVER—"It was real romantic," said Brian McAllister after being fined $5 for picking flowers in Stanley Park. McAllister, 21, who told police he picked the blooms for a lady friend said he feared he would now be known as "the flower stealer."

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—First World War hero Sgt. Alvin York, 76, has been placed on the critical list at veterans' hospital here as the result of pneumonia in his right lung.

NEW YORK—Typewriter heiress Gamble Bennett Porumbanu, 24, has left her Romanian-born husband "for good this time." One of Mrs. Porumbanu's closest friends said the

A strike vote among Victoria carpenters is scheduled for Monday and carpenters in the Cranbrook-Kimberley area, whose contract demands are similar, set up picket lines yesterday.

A union official said last night that a B.C. government-supervised strike vote will be held from 5 to 8 p.m. Monday at the Curling Rink in the dispute between the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and contractors represented by the Victoria Building Industries Exchange.

LUTON, England—Patrick Doherty, 24, died after drinking a fifth of Scotch in three gulps to win a $2,800 bet, an inquest was told. Friends said before gulping the whiskey, Doherty also drank two shots of Scotch and the equivalent of two liters of beer.

LONDON—David Spiller, 56, has won ownership of a $42,000 plot of ground because he has successfully squatted on it for 19 years. He became legal owner of a half-acre in suburban Stanmore under the Limitation Act which says if a landowner allows someone to remain in possession of his land for 12 years or longer without the occupant paying rent or having a lease, the owner's title becomes void.

TORONTO—Gerald Paul Moka, 28, of Vancouver, who said he did not want his parents to know he had failed his examinations at an electrical training school here, has been charged with public mischief. The youth was found on a city street bleeding from both arms and police were told he had been attacked by two youths who slashed his arms.

TOKYO—Premier Nagata has won the first non-consultative vote brought against him since he took office in July, 1958. By a vote of 279 to 164, the Liberal-Democratic party defeated the censure motion introduced by the Socialists and Communists after the conservative government party shelved bills permitting ratification of an International Labor Organization convention.

Carpenters Vote Monday

Arthur Leam, executive secretary-treasurer of the union's B.C. Provincial Council of Carpenters, said last night that carpenters in the Cranbrook-Kimberley area had been, like Victoria carpenters, getting 14 cents an hour paid $3.14, have won a two-year contract which will raise their pay in two stages to an eventual $3.49.

Victoria carpenters currently get $3 an hour. Lower mainland carpenters, until recently and lower mainland and upland contractors on a new contract. The contract calls for a two-year agreement with wage increases totalling 25 cents, 20 cents effective June 1 and a further 15 cents April 1 next year.

Mr. Leam said agreement has been reached between the union and lower mainland and up-

New Education Officials Attended Victoria Schools

Three senior appointments in the department of education have been announced yesterday by Education Minister Peterman. Dr. W. A. Plenderleith has been named assistant superintendent of education, administration, replacing G. W. Grant. Dr. Reid has been made chief inspector of schools. All three appointees received their early schooling in Victoria.

Victoria Student Survives Crash

New Post

Newly-appointed comptroller of water resources is Gordon J. A. Kidd, former deputy comptroller. Water Resources Minister Ray Williston announced the appointment recently. (Jim Ryan).

A Victoria man was one of three men who survived when the light plane they were flying in crashed into Salmon Inlet near Sechart yesterday morning.

SWAM TO SAFETY

With him were surveyor Gary Thiel, 27, and pilot Allan Evans, 21, from South Africa.

In a call to his mother, Mrs. J. L. Spriggs, at noon yesterday, Gordon said the plane crashed into the inlet about half a mile from shore, and the trio had to swim for safety.

The only injury suffered was a deep cut to the pilot's forehead.

HIKED FOR HELP

The three saw the plane sink, and after they reached shore they hiked half a mile to a church camp for help.

Gordon and Mr. Thiel were surveying for a new B.C. Hydro power line when the plane crashed from an altitude of 500 feet.

Last Day Today For Father, Son

Two Japps — father and son — are spending their last day at Edward Milne School today.

Ronald Jupp, 18, graduates with his class, and his father, Joseph, principal of the school, leaves to become technical and vocational co-ordinator for the department of education.

Mr. Jupp went to Edward Milne from England after teaching for one year at Salmon Arm.

He was vice-principal for three years in the Sooke district, then served as principal for eight.

His son leaves July 15 on a goodwill exchange tour of the U.S. with other Canadian air cadets. He won a flying scholarship with the Victoria air cadet squadron, and has his civilian pilot's licence.

A younger brother, Ronald, 16, will continue his studies at Edward Milne.

Douglas

It takes a long time to break

You know what you like in whiskies. You've probably been living with the one kind for five, ten, maybe twenty years.

All we ask is one minute.

We think that's all it will take to change your mind. That, and merely one taste of a whisky called Time.

You'll find you have never known a rye like this. The taste is light, warm, smooth. A gentle whisky—but not at all kind to old habits.

It gives you a lot to think about for 60 seconds.

Time enough.

Coho fishing at Qualicum and Campbell River takes the limelight in today's King Fisherman Contest entries.

The fighting silvers are taking a variety of lures, but Bucktail fly fishing on the surface is proving the most popular and exciting.

Tonquin Again

Ship Searcher Certain

The search for the trading vessel Tonquin will resume this month and a Victorian who will take part in the expedition says he is convinced the ship will be found this time.

The Tonquin, a trading vessel for John Jacob Astor, blew up or burned somewhere off the northern coast of Vancouver Island in 1811. Research on its location has gone on for years and searchers have found other ships, but never the Tonquin.

The newest expedition will be led by Dr. George Cottrell of Portland, Ore., and will sail aboard the 65-foot yacht, Summarice, which is due to arrive here today.

E. A. MacFayden, the expedition's liaison officer, has spent many hours on research in the archives here.

He says he's sure the Tonquin will be found during the hunt this month and early in July. Whether it is or it isn't, he

Poor Mix Costly To Driver

COURTENAY — "Apparently beer and medicine do not mix well," Magistrate T. G. Ryan told a Victoria driver in magistrate's court yesterday.

Adelard Armond Gervais, charged with impaired driving, pleaded guilty and told the court he was in the Fanny Bay beer parlor when a fight began.

SERVICE STATION

He left, driving to a service station to call police.

When RCMP arrived, they said, Gervais was in an advanced state of intoxication. Gervais told the court he had only three beers but had taken medication earlier in the day.

He was fined $15 and given a 30 day licence suspension.

Sharp Rites Held Here

Funeral services were held in Sunda's chapel yesterday for Harold Sharp, a resident of Victoria and Tofino for many years, who died in hospital here Sunday at 61.

Mr. Sharp and his sister Mrs. Frank Johnson, now of 32 Lotus Avenue, operated the Tofino Lodge for a time. Later Mr. Sharp became a fisherman and home builder.

For the past two decades, he spent his summers in Tofino and winters with the Johnsons in Victoria. Also surviving is his brother William, owner of a Tofino bakery.

Victoria Spaniel The Best

GANGES — The silver rose howl, a new junior challenge trophy donated by Fernwood Farms for the Salt Spring Island summer dog obedience trials, has been won by Victoria entrant Rene Hindle, 14, and his cocker spaniel Billy.

Billy also won the novice A class and the out-of-town section, scoring 187½ of a possible 200 points in the latter division. Tuam, owned by Karen East of Salt Spring, won the Willingdon trophy with 176 points.

Melville Folk To Meet Again

Many Victoria residents, formerly of the Melville, Sask., district, will attend the 12th annual Melville picnic in Vancouver July 12.

Prizes will be awarded to the oldest person present and to the person coming the greatest distance.

City Club Helps Children

By RUTH McKELLAR

COURTENAY — The Victoria Kiwanis Club has come to the rescue of the Comox Valley Association for Mentally Handicapped Children.

The association learned at a membership meeting Tuesday that the Victoria group wants to begin work on a summer beach camp for handicapped children.

FOR SOME TIME

The reception was enthusiastic, since the association has favored such a camp for some time but has been unable to begin the large undertaking.

The camp, location of which is not known, would include all types and levels of handicapped individuals and each group would attend the camp at separate times.

It is understood the provincial government favors the plan and would co-operate by helping to secure suitable beach property which would allow for expansion as needed.

The association presented life membership to president Henry Lunn, who is leaving the district, and to Miss Georgina Hunden, who will attend UBC for further training.

Mr. Lunn has been president for six months, during which he has been instrumental in promotion of a recreational workshop for adults and the first steps taken toward a kindergarten for retarded children.

"We are branching out and we must see that the branches must never let ourselves become are strong and bear fruit," Mr. Lunn told the association. "We do."

If, one of these days, you drive up behind something that looks like a galloping rickshaw don't panic—it's a pedicab.

The pedicab question has been before city council and council committees for some time, but it is virtually certain now that permission will be given to operate them in restricted areas of the city.

A special traffic committee indicated yesterday that it has no serious objection to the operation of the bicycle-drawn vehicle providing regulations are obeyed, and they stay in the Beacon Hill Park area.

Attorney-General Bonner yesterday confirmed that the Johnston Street liquor store would be relocated shortly in larger premises on Government Street.

He said the liquor control board has sent a letter of intent to McLennan, McFeely and Prior Ltd. stating it will occupy the vacant store at Government and Johnston.

Two U.S. Navy officers, a rear-admiral and a captain, will pay separate visits to Victoria within the next week.

Arriving Friday at 3 p.m. in the Inner Harbor aboard a 58-foot U.S. naval yacht to start a San Juan Islands cruise is Capt. D. G. Gums, commander of the naval air station at Whidbey Island. He will entertain members of Rear-Admiral Landymore's staff.

Rear-Admiral John Taylor, commander western sea frontier, San Diego, will make a one-day visit July 1 as a guest of Rear-Admiral Landymore. He will be taken on a tour of HMC Dockyard and headquarters of Maritime Commander Pacific.

Angels Want To Jump

Membership boom of recently-formed Silk Angels Skydiving Club of Victoria and Vancouver continues at Cassidy airport near Nanaimo, where this quartet started training Sunday and hopes to take first jump in two weeks. Would-be fliers are, from left, Irene Brockdorf, 19, of Nanaimo, and Janet MacIver, 19, Dorothy Wharton, 20, and Marjory Campbell, 20, all of Victoria. (L. R. Englefield)

Escapes U.S. Crash

Robert Armstrong, 22, of Thetis Lake Trailer Park, escaped injury in a car-truck crash north of Yreka, Calif., which took the life of the other driver. It was learned yesterday.

He was towing a house trailer from Los Angeles to Victoria for his father-in-law, Robert Dawson of Bob's Trailer Sales, 3687 Harriet.

Oak Bay Starts July 6

Busy Playgrounds

With themes such as pirates, Vikings, outer space and the Wild West in line for summer weeks, the Oak Bay Recreation Commission's playground program begins at 10 a.m. July 6.

There will be free registration for children between five and 12 years at Carnarvon and Windsor Parks.

FIVE DAYS WEEKLY

The program will be five days a week from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. through to August 28. Carnarvon supervisor will be Linda Bishop, assisted by Isabelle Boyle, while at Windsor Betty Robinson will supervise, helped by Valerie Barras.

SAFETY FIRST

Interesting themes for kids have been planned for each week. Opening week will specialize in playground safety with police and firemen as guests.

Mexico week will follow, when part of the craft section will be used making model donkey carts and sombreros.

Mayor Blunt Over Bridge

NANAIMO (Special)—Mayor Pete Mallico yesterday offered to resign, if he has to, to get a bridge built to the nearby Newcastle Island playground.

He spoke shortly after the christening of the provincial government's new ferry to Gabriola Island from here, the Westwood, named for former cabinet minister Earle Westwood.

Mayor Mallico challenged the government to underwrite the bridge cost and said he would resign, if necessary, to lead a committee promoting the bridge.

Food Store 'Ghouls' Nailed Down

The provincial government has declared war on what it calls a small margin of profit on terms of inflationary grocery hoarding.

The purchasing commission has set a new food-buying policy to combat store proprietors who raise their prices when emergency crews are taken to their area to fight forest fires, officials said Thursday.

CAN ASK BIDS

The new policy — in effect since April — makes the forest service an agent of the purchasing commission, and local buyers are empowered to invite food bids.

Under previous methods, the commission did not have time to shop around for the best deal and had to buy where it could at the prices charged.

The only complaint received on the new policy was from the Burns Lake Co-operative Association which said the forest service is asking for an unfair discount.

In a public letter the association said merchants could not

Plea Changed Sentence Suspended

A plea of "not guilty" was charged to "guilty" and Robert McGregor, charged with breaking and entering and theft from B-L Grocery, 2042 Tillicum Road, Jan. 17, received a suspended sentence of two years less a day.

In view of the change of plea, Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton discharged the jury and excused them from further attendance at the assizes. The next assize case will be in November.

Contributing to McGregor's suspended sentence were the testimony of two character witnesses and the fact that McGregor had no previous record.

Inquest Jury Says:

Jail Should Have Medical Details

A recommendation by a jury that inmates of the city jail should supply police with their doctor's name and their medical history on arrest, has been forwarded to the city police commission by coroner Edmund J. de St. Jorre.

This rider was added to a death by natural causes verdict brought in by a jury inquiring into the death of Samuel Errett, 30, of 1407 Fort, who died in hospital as a result of a heart attack in Royal Jubilee Hospital,

Business in B.C. Ahead of Last Year

Factory shipments in British Columbia in the first quarter of 1964 were worth $625,000,000—up more than 10 per cent from the same period last year, industry minister Ralph Lofmark said Wednesday.

Mr. Lofmark said in a monthly report on business activity that all areas of manufacturing associated with the forest industry registered strong gains in March and April despite tidal wave damage to some large mills.

Newsprint production climbed 28 per cent while pulp production was up 19 per cent and plywood 16.2 per cent.

Housing starts and completions in April were up 60 and 65 per cent respectively, while the value of building permits rose 29 per cent.

The value of exports from B.C. ports was $549,000,000, up more than 15 per cent. Retail sales were 12 per cent higher. The value of fish landed in April was down 20 per cent.

Busy Boy Caught —And Caught Again

WINNIPEG (CP) — When police answered a burglar alarm at a Winnipeg factory Sunday evening, all they found was a pair of small boys, aged 10 and 7. They took them home to their parents.

About midnight they caught the 10-year-old again, and say he admitted breaking into five other buildings the same night.

Police estimated the boy got $800 from 24 break-ins since June 1.

Medal Winner

Gold medal award winner of graduating class in three-year office administration university course, Sidney Kales, left, receives award and diploma from James Greenwood, international president of Administrative Management Society. Mr. Greenwood presented awards and diplomas to graduates at recent society conference at Empress Hotel.

A Saanich woman lay in bed terrified while a burglar downstairs ransacked two drawers, took a change purse, $20 grocery money and $3 a boy had been saving for his holidays.

Mrs. Norma Crawford, of 4004 Glenford, was in bed when she heard a noise downstairs and thought it was her girl boarder returning home. She heard a scurrying and then the closing of a door when she called out.

Mrs. Crawford stayed in bed for two hours, too scared to go downstairs, until her boarder arrived and they searched the house and called police.

Not only was Mrs. Crawford's grocery money missing but so was the $3 her 10-year-old son David had earned in two days of berry picking.

WALTER CRONKITE: General, I think there are some 2,000 men who lie here at the cemetery of St. Laurent, overlooking Omaha Beach. Most of the D-Day casualties are here.

GEN. EISENHOWER: All except those who were taken home, you know. About 60 per cent of the families want their sons' bodies taken home. During the war our Quartermaster people put temporary cemeteries in. Afterwards, the American Battle Monuments Commission gathered the men from the invasion area, down as far as St. Lo and made this beautiful development as their final resting place. It is beautifully done, and brings back many memories to me.

Knew What They Were In For —But I Tried to Think Ahead

You know, Walter, D-Day has a very special meaning for me. Not only because of the weight of the decisions that then rested upon my shoulders—and the anxieties that were a natural part of sending in an invasion. Where many boys were going to give their lives or be maimed forever.

But I tried to think ahead to the future and the kind of world we would have if we failed in our difficult task. I knew we could not fail.

Son Graduates

On the very day that youngsters were coming across these beaches in the face of the terrible fire from the enemy, my son was graduating from West Point. Later he joined us over here with the 71st Division and still later he served as a combat infantry officer in Korea.

He has had a very full life. He is the father of four lovely children who are very precious to my wife and me.

The young boys who stormed these beaches 20 years ago did so to preserve freedom and self-government in the world. They paid for the future of millions of people like my son.

People who live in freedom and believe in human dignity seem called upon periodically to defend these values against an ambitious man or clique.

Sacrifice

We too have been called upon several times in this century, as part of the free world, to sacrifice the flower of our youth in order to make that our values, ideals and aspirations do not perish.

This beautiful cemetery is just a small symbol of what those sacrifices were. Cemeteries like this one girdle the earth, yet represent only a portion of the fallen.

Full Measure

The men in this cemetery were cut off in their prime. They were never allowed to fulfill themselves, to have and enjoy their families, to raise their children. That is the full measure of their sacrifice.

Citizenship Sought, Not Hurried

A 79-year-old Chinese who has lived here since 1911 was among those making application for Canadian citizenship yesterday before Judge M. L. Tyrwhitt-Drake.

The applicant is Chee Moon, 606 Herald Street, and he spoke through an interpreter.

"For those who have been in Canada for 20 years or more, it is not necessary, the applicant speak French or English," explained Judge Drake to the other 20 applicants.

These men of D-Day gave us a chance. They bought time for us so we could learn to do better than the generation did before us.

If only the GIs of 20 years ago could see the youngsters playing on the beach here today. They would know they had not died in vain. They turned the lights back on in Europe.

'Must Find Peace'

My mind comes back day after day to these beaches. Let us pray that we have seen the end of global wars that have set back civilization and destroyed so much happiness. Whenever I think of that day 20 years ago, I say to myself, we must find some way to work to peace and to gain eternal peace for this world.

I devoutly hope that we'll never again have to see such scenes as those that took place on D-Day 20 years ago. I pray that humanity has learned more than we had up to that time.

John Windsor's Second Book Out on Friday

A second book by the Brentwood author of Blind Date is to be available Friday.

The release of Nowhere Else to Go, a biography by John Windsor of Victoria comedian Jerry Gosley, was scheduled to coincide with the annual opening of Mr. Gosley's Smile Show, said Gray Campbell, president of Gray's Publishing Limited, Sidney.

FIRST PUBLISHED

Mr. Campbell said Mr. Windsor has been working on the book for about eight months. Blind Date, an autobiographical work dealing with the author's blindness, was published in May, 1962, and was the first book to be published by Gray's Publishing.

The first printing of 3,000 copies sold out, and the book is now in its second printing.

TRANSLATION

Mr. Campbell said his firm has had requests for copies of the book from many countries and permission was recently granted at the request of a United States doctor in Korea for the book to be translated into Korean for the benefit of blind people there.

He said his firm's most recent book, The Pacific Gardener by West Saanich Road author-grower Art Willis, has had notable success and almost half the book's first printing, of 5,000 copies, has been sold.

Bonded Stock is in the best shape ever.

Our whisky doesn't come in those old bottles anymore. Those fine old bottles have launched their last sip. We've designed these new containers for Bonded Stock. Plus matching new labels. And we age Bonded Stock longer now as well. This makes every drop just a little more mellow. One thing though, Bonded Stock's smooth lightness we don't change. Our blenders know a good thing when they taste it. Judging from the number of people who buy Bonded Stock, so does the rest of the country.

Salute to Dr. Hooker

By M. V. CRESNUT, F.R.S.

I have often wondered just what makes teachers tick. Teaching is, of course, our most essential profession, for without teachers we would have no doctors, no lawyers, no engineers or scientists, but why should a gifted and highly qualified doctor turn to teaching in medical school knowing full well that his financial rewards can at best be only a fraction of what his pupils will earn? A lawyer must need to know a lot of law to teach in law school, and surely a corporation would pay a lot more for this knowledge than any university.

I suppose the answer is that these are dedicated men and women—they would sooner teach than eat. And occasionally you run across one who is not only dedicated but inspired as well, capable of firing the imagination of the pupil to the point where he is never quite the same again.

I have run across evidence of such inspired teaching even in the low grades of public schools, and I have often thought that the future of civilization must lie in the hands of these realists.

Most certainly the gardeners of British Columbia—and of the world—owe a great debt of gratitude to one of these fired-up teachers. His name was Dr. William Hooker, professor of botany at the medical school of Glasgow University in the early years of the nineteenth century, and he had a tough row to hoe.

Medical students of those days had to attend a few lectures in botany, and in most universities the course was looked upon as a dull but necessary evil, to be gotten through with the least possible study and not to be compared in interest with the dissecting room and the hospital.

In Glasgow, though, things were different. Lecturing in a dingy building situated in the midst of reeking chimneys and murky factories, Hooker struck a spark in the minds of his pupils which never left them as long as they lived. Several of these pupils brought honor and fame to British Columbia.

There was, for instance, Dr. William Fraser Tolmie, a young surgeon sent out by the Hudson's Bay Company to serve under James Douglas, first in Fort Vancouver on the Columbia River, then in Victoria. As one of Hooker's disciples, young Tolmie spent all his spare time botanizing, and seldom did a Hudson's Bay ship sail for home without one of his collections of living plants and seeds consigned to Glasgow University.

Another of Hooker's proteges was David Douglas, who roamed the whole of the Pacific Coast in his plant-hunting expeditions for the Royal Horticultural Society. This young Scot penetrated territory where no white man had ever before set foot, and his adventures with hostile Indians would make our television gunfighters look like a bunch of pantywaists. He fought, argued, traded, and in one instance he deliberately lost a wrestling match with an Indian chief to gain goodwill and secure permission to botanize in forbidden territory.

Only slightly less amazing was the low cost of his expeditions, for he lived off the land most of the time. One three-year trip cost the society less than $400—and this included the $5 lost in wrestling.

The list of his discoveries and introductions is fantastic—the Douglas fir is probably the best-known—and one can hardly turn a single page in a modern plant encyclopedia without running across the specific name "douglasii" attached to some plant discovered by Dr. Hooker's intrepid young pupil from Glasgow.

ART BUCHWALD Meets a Unique Guy

They All Leave It to Harold

We just bought a new house and by so doing we have made a discovery that will shock everyone.

We have discovered that ours is a nation of middlemen and sub-contractors and that there is only one man in the entire nation that actually does the work.

His name is Harold.

We discovered Harold accidentally. We had made a call to a company who had promised to build us some bookshelves. We demanded to talk to the head man to find out why they hadn't been delivered. He hemmed and hawed for a while and finally admitted his company didn't actually make the bookshelves—they sub-contracted the work to another company.

We called that company who said that the work had been sub-contracted to a company who specialized in bookshelves. A call revealed that the company didn't make bookshelves, but supplied the wood.

"Well, who makes the bookshelves?"

"Harold does," the manager replied.

We managed to get Harold's address from the man and out of curiosity we went to see him.

Harold lived on a farm.

We found him in a large barn surrounded by lathes, machine tools, lumber, upholstery, saws, drills, electrical equipment and presses.

In every corner of the barn piled high were appliances to be fixed, furniture to be upholstered, lamps to be rewired, cabinets to be repaired, rugs to be reweaved, desks to be refinished and mattresses to be restuffed.

When we walked into the barn Harold was on the phone shouting, "But I've only got two hands," and hung up. "Everybody wants everything in a hurry. That was a decorator," he said. "She's been waiting on two upholstered chairs for six years. Big deal!"

"Tell me, Harold," we said, "is it true you're the only in the country who can do anything?"

"That's what they tell me," Harold said, as he took a chew of tobacco. "There was a guy who also did the work, but he decided to go into sales, so now I have to do it all alone."

"But how can you do everything by yourself?"

"It isn't easy," he replied. "But there are 14,587,908 sub-contractors who depend on me and if I didn't do the work, they would all go out of business."

"But surely there must be someone else who has the skills necessary to do your kind of work."

"You'd think so, but I can't even find anyone to help me. My own son started to help me but he found it paid better to take orders. So I'm doing it all alone."

"Is the fact that you're the only one who does the work the reason I have to wait so long for my bookshelves?"

"I suppose so. Things keep piling up and I just do the best I can."

"When do you think I can get the bookshelves?"

"Bout April 12, 1978, if there's no shipping complications. You'll have to excuse me now, I have to fix some lamps for President Roosevelt. It's a rush order."

"Harold, President Roosevelt passed away."

"Nobody told me. I don't get much chance to read the papers," Harold apologized. "Well, I can move your order up then."

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Sybil Finds New Love

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — They are saying in London that Sybil Burton is in love. Really and truly in love. With the son of her best friend. He's Brock Williams, eight years her junior. His playwright-actor father, Emory Williams, discovered Richard Burton years and years ago and brought him to London in his play, The Wind of Heaven. It was to prove an ill wind for Sybil. But with her new love, the gale which was never more than a sigh of regret, has subsided for the bravest, most understanding wife in the world.

They are also saying in London something I refuse to believe, that the honeymoon is over for the Rex Harrisons. "But they have always fought," I said when I heard the rumors. I remembered the fights they had in Rome before they married. I also remembered how happy they seemed to be in New York and Hollywood after their marriage. "There is a breath left in my informant. I will believe it when I hear it from Rex or Rachel."

Education note: Frank Sinatra's protege, Tony Hill, is determined to get his Ph.D. He reckons he can do it in six years on a part-time acting-studying basis. I wish him luck.

Zsa Zsa Gabor has been a great hit in London with the older set, but what the critics did to her TV appearance shouldn't happen to your worst enemy. One reviewer thought it was time for Zsa to retire from the performing arts. Not while there is a breath left in her ample bosom. So he can just save his breath.

Playwright Paddy Chayefsky has met with Spencer Tracy in Hollywood to discuss his screenplay, The Cincinnati Kid. In which Spencer will star this coming October—with Steve McQueen and Karl Malden. Now there's a top-notch trio of actors. The role for Tracy is not too strenuous. He'll be sitting at a card table most of the time, playing poker.

REX HARRISON and RACHEL ROBERTS
... Is their marriage on the rocks?

Now why would Bette Davis be so unkind to Sir Alec Guinness? At a recent party in New York, Sir Alec, on spotting Miss Davis, said a polite "How do you do?" to which she hissed, "Go away," and one or two other things. They made a picture together a long time ago, and apparently Bette did not care for the experience. As a matter of fact, neither did Sir Alec, but he is always polite, especially at parties.

Attitude of Mind

By
Dr. Stuart Rosenberg

The world is like a television set. Things that look very big are really just a fraction of their seeming size. Many things are not really what they seem. There is a kind of unreality even about the biggest things. What seem to be mountains are really molehills.

And what is true of things is also true of ideas. We sometimes have big ideas about ourselves and others that turn out to be Tom-Thumb thoughts.

Consider the people who are provincial and contrast them with those who call themselves cosmopolitan. What makes a man provincial or cosmopolitan has little to do with the place in which he lives. It is rather an attitude of the mind.

The cosmopolitan thinks of himself as urban, but more often than not, he is only urban or perhaps suburban. In his desire to be "a citizen of the world," he belongs to nothing because he thinks that he belongs to everything.

It turns out that the strangest kind of provincial is the cosmopolitan. He may be glib. He is usually a dilettante who lacks convictions of his own. He dresses es up and covers himself with the quilted patchwork of other people's ideas which he borrows for each special occasion.

Lessons from the lives of great men are available: Albert Schweitzer is a citizen of the world because, in a certain sense, he reached the deepest meaning of life of all life.

And Gandhi and Weizmann were such people. Like Schweitzer they had deep roots in their own tradition, a profound fervor and zeal.

But always they had the understanding that what they were doing was related to the deepest needs of all men.

"Deep calleth unto deep." To be sure, we have got to belong to something if anything is to belong to us. But always, if what we believe in belongs to us alone, we remain provincial despite our cosmopolitan claims.

When the boundaries of space or color divide us from each other, then we become less than what we were destined to be. If we know only ourselves, we really never get to be our best selves. There is one antidote to being either provincial or cosmopolitan. We need to be fully human.

Separatists Protest Non-Paid Holiday

MONTREAL (CP)—Some 110 members of the Rassemblement pour l'Indépendance Nationale staged a sit-down demonstration against the CNR Wednesday, then marched to the rhythm of separatist chanting deep into Montreal's east-end.

ENGLISH REMOVED
One young member of the group was arrested after he pulled down a Red Ensign hanging from a house but the sit-down itself went without incident under a broiling sun as preparations went forward elsewhere for the St. Jean Baptiste Day parade Wednesday night.

Their sit-down strike was held to protest the lack of a paid holiday for CNR hourly-rated employees on the feast-day, celebrated throughout Quebec as a public holiday.

At the society's annual parade, Governor-General Vanier was both cheered and booed as he stood on a stand at the Montreal Public Library.

He had earlier declined to attend the celebrations, after extremist statements by Montreal society members, but decided the group was not representative of Quebec and agreed to attend.

Skate Group Elects City Woman

Elected director for Vancouver Island, at the annual meeting of the B.C. section of the Canadian Figure Skating Association in Kelowna, was Eve Lettice, 1120 Faithful Street.

Also elected director for the Island was Mrs. L. C. Lake of Nanaimo.

Ruth Thacker of West Vancouver was returned as chairman of the section and Mrs. William Sawicki as secretary-treasurer.

The meeting was attended by representatives from 35 clubs in the province. The 1965 sectional figure skating championships were awarded to the Vancouver area.

Saanich Chief

Firemen
To Seek Board
Ruling

Saanich firefighters will seek arbitration by the B.C. Labor Relations Board in the hiring of Joseph Sutherland as Saanich fire chief, a union official said last night.

David McGregor, secretary of the Saanich union, said a meeting yesterday between union representatives and Saanich council's personnel committee was congenial but neither side gave ground. He said the union has no course left but to seek arbitration.

CONTRACT VIOLATED

He said the union thinks council violated the union's contract by hiring Mr. Sutherland from outside the Saanich fire department, by giving retiring Fire Chief Joseph Law 18 months in extensions after his normal retirement age and by not consulting with the union about the new chief's appointment.

Council members have said they do not think the chief's appointment is legally subject to arbitration.

Condition
Of Baby
Unchanged

The condition of Darryl Prand, born three months ago with a hole in his heart, is unchanged, his mother told The Colonist last night.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Constant Prand, 181 Beach Heights, was transferred Tuesday from Royal Jubilee Hospital to Vancouver General Hospital for a definite heart operation.

"Even the preliminary tests could be critical. We will know Friday what they are going to do."

Council Committee

Bus Fares Face
Full-Scale Study

By A. H. MURPHY
Colonist City Hall Reporter

The B.C. Hydro proposal to increase cash bus fares to 25 cents, equal to the highest rates in Canada, will be the subject of a full-scale discussion on Monday afternoon when city council meets.

Meanwhile, the suggestion of Mayor R. B. Wilson that a tripartite conference of provincial, municipal and B.C. Hydro officials be called to hammer out a solution to the problem, evoked absolutely no reaction from B.C. Hydro or the provincial government.

FREE-WHEELING

The matter has been mentioned several times during city council committee meetings but, on each occasion, it was decided that its importance merited discussion by full council. Accordingly, following the formal meeting on Monday afternoon, council will go into committee for a free-wheeling parley on the topic.

The gravity of the proposal and its possible effect on the public, and particularly upon the old people and children, has stimulated much interest in responsible circles in Victoria.

HARDSHIP

Mayor Wilson said yesterday that, following discussion by city council, the matter would probably be referred to the inter-municipal council.

During a recent committee meeting Ald. Austin Curtis said he feared that if the increase went into effect it was going to work a serious hardship on a good many people in Victoria.

FARES DOUBLED

The B.C. Hydro announcement that it would seek increases roughly double present bus fares came on June 15.

The new fares would be 25 cents cash for adults or five tickets for a dollar, compared with 13 cents and four tickets for 50 cents as at present.

Children's fares would double to 10 cents and a new category introduced for students who would pay 15 cents.

NO ZONES

The announcement also said that the present system of three fare zones would be consolidated into a single zone, eliminating the need for transfers and variation in fares.

Greater Victoria transit manager H. R. Halls said the increases were needed to raise revenue by $450,000 here and $2,250,000 on the mainland. Otherwise last year's $3,250,000 loss would rise to $4,000,000.

HADN'T KNOWN

Questioned recently about the proposed increases, Premier Bennett said they "had nothing to do with the government."

The premier said he hadn't known of the proposed increases until he heard news reports.

As the matter stands, a Public Utilities Commission ruling on the increases would not be necessary if B.C. municipalities accepted the fare boost—a remote possibility. If they oppose, as is likely, the B.C. Hydro will have to present its case to the PUC.

Mayor Wilson said yesterday that so far as he knew the city of Victoria had not received a copy of the B.C. Hydro submission to the PUC.

Isherwood

Liberal Swings
To Conservatives

An active Liberal since 1949 with high-placed Liberal Sidney Smith.

Mr. Isherwood then ran as an independent Liberal against Mr. Grosz—and was defeated.

In a statement yesterday, Mr. Isherwood said his switch was finally decided for him "by the shameful mishandling" of the day issue.

He said the return of the Liberal administration had shown how little the party had learned from its term of opposition.

He referred to it as "petty and bungling" and said it showed the "arrogance of a self-willed bureaucracy."

"This jockeying of the Pearson administration will not solve our many difficulties nor the question of a split federalism," he said.

"If ever there was a time and place to use the democratic machinery of a plebiscite to let all the people have a choice... this was certainly the occasion."

In announcing the switch Mr. Isherwood said he did not intend to run for office.

The big split resulted in Victoria Liberal president George Ellis resigning and later joining the Social Credit party along with high-placed Liberal Sidney Smith.

Convention
Engulfs
City's Shops

An army of 600 women descended on Victoria's downtown shopping area yesterday.

The women, all members of the Pi Beta Phi sorority from all over North America, are staying at the Empress Hotel this week for the 44th biennial convention.

"It's the biggest resident convention we've ever had here," said manager Leslie Parkinson. "Usually convention delegates split up and stay at different places, but on this one, we've got all 600 of them."

It's also a good thing for the hotel—the 600 delegates are rumored to be spending a total of around $15,000 a day. That includes cost of rooms, meals and other daily necessities.

All week the members have been taking part in active workshops, learning about parliamentary procedure and other aspects of social structure.

But yesterday, the convention program took a break so the women could go shopping in the city.

This is the first time the sorority has met in Victoria and the third in Canada since its inception in 1867 at Monmouth College, Illinois.

Five active chapters in Canada are at universities in Nova Scotia, Toronto, Western Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta.

To accommodate the delegates for meals, the Empress had to establish additional dining facilities in the hotel lobby.

Convention will end Saturday, and that's another big headache for the hotel staff. They'll have to move more than 1,400 pieces of luggage as the women move out.

Selection Ends Today

Horse in Sweep

Irish sweepstakes tickets were drawn in Dublin last night on 15 of the 30 horses eligible for the Irish Derby Saturday, and only one Vancouver Island name is on the list.

A Nanaimo resident using the nom-de-plume Missie had ticket SJK 67033 drawn on the outsider, Master Buck.

Tickets will be drawn today on the other 15 horses, including Santa Claus, the favorite at the prohibitive odds of 4 to 1.

Only 77 tickets were sold in Canada, 23 in Western Canada and 54 in B.C. last night, all well below normal.

This second Irish sweepstakes of the year was smaller than prize $30,000. Holders of tickets usual because of the reduced on non-starters and also-ran field of eligible entries. In the first sweepstakes this year, on the Grand National, tickets were drawn on 80 eligible horses.

Late scribbles are expected to reduce the number of actual starters Saturday to about 15.

Second favorite is U.S.-owned Dictator, which was drawn by a resident of Nelson, B.C.

First prize will be $350,000, second prize $60,000 and third prize $30,000. Holders of tickets will receive about $1,100 each.

St. Joseph's Birthday

—And Growing

St. Joseph's Hospital will be in the midst of a $1,053,000 second-phase expansion program when its 88th birthday rolls around today.

It was 88 years ago, on June 25, 1876, that the Sisters of Saint Ann opened a two-story, 35-bed hospital which was built at a cost of $13,900.

Opening of the hospital came 18 years after the arrival at Fort Victoria of four members of the Sisters of Saint Ann, who came to the wilderness colony in 1858 to teach but also accepted the responsibility of visiting homes here to look after the sick.

St. Joseph's is now in the midst of a $1,053,000 construction program—the second phase of a long range program aimed at increasing the hospital's usefulness for residents of the Greater Victoria area.

Passersby can see the new linen service building which is taking shape adjacent to the hospital, but a number of changes will also be made elsewhere in the hospital, under the present contract which was awarded to Burns & Dutton Construction Ltd. of Richmond.

Curse Hurlled at Judge

Eight-Year Sentence Imposed for Robbery

By IAN ARROL

With tears streaming down his face, Lloyd De Wolfe, 21, sentenced yesterday to eight years in jail on a robbery with violence charge, yelled a curse as he left the court at presiding Judge M. L. Drake.

De Wolfe also got five years concurrent on a charge of confining a person against his will.

NO COMMENT

The judge said he had no words of comment as he passed sentence on De Wolfe, that his actions spoke for themselves in connection with the April 7 beating and robbery of William Morgan, who had been hitch-hiking home from school on the Patricia Bay Highway.

Sentences for the three 18-year-old youths involved were for Russell Techtter, 335 Michigan, two years less a day for the robbery with violence charge, and a concurrent six months for confining; for Charles Ash, 869 Parklands, eight months definite and six months indefinite on the first charge; and for Eugene Hunt, 348 Michigan, three months definite at New Haven, six months indefinite on the first count and three months concurrent on the second.

PROTECT PUBLIC

Mr. Justice Drake said in passing out these sentences his first consideration was protection of the public.

"There have been 31 cases involving beatings since last December in this area, the latest last weekend. This situation is not to be tolerated," he said.

The judge termed the actions of the youths sentenced to be "in keeping with the highest traditions of the German SS."

Concerning the lighter sentences of Ash and Hunt, the judge said they were "merely stupid oafs" and, he felt, "amenable to reformation."

OFFERED JOB

Before the sentences, a plea was made by Kenneth Cox, defence counsel for Eugene Hunt, for a suspended sentence for his client. Hunt's father, Thomas, said if the plea was granted he would take his son commercial fishing for an eight-month period.

Crown prosecutor Kenneth Murphy pointed out that Eugene has had fishing jobs before.

The defence counsel for Ash, Gerald Sinnott, said his client "needed more than a jail sentence—a job."

Better Dive Fast
For Swim Offer

If you want to take advantage of the Colonist free swim class offer and make it a worry-free summer, you'd better do it fast.

Friday at 5 p.m. is deadline for bringing or mailing the coupons so your child can learn to be safe in water. Just fill out the coupon above and deliver or mail it to The Daily Colonist, 2631 Douglas Street, immediately.

For the past 10 years, swim instructor Margie Naysmith and a team of helpers have taught more than 12,000 youngsters to swim.

Age range for children who want to take advantage of this unique free offer is from eight to 14.

AIDES THIS YEAR

Mrs. Naysmith's assistants in this year's classes which begin next month at Elk Lake and at Duncan, are her daughter, Marilyn Cann, Jane McGilivray, Brenda Howell, Pam Hills, Brian Duncan, and Karen Johnson.

Classes for Victoria children will begin July 2 at Hamsterley Beach at Elk Lake and will continue Monday through Thursday mornings until August 26.

"Hamsterley Beach is now nicer than it has ever been, with the addition of fresh sand," says Mrs. Naysmith. "And there's a special enclosure for the learner swimmers."

Mrs. Naysmith will also include classes for advanced swimmers—children who can swim a minimum 15 to 20 strokes, or 40 feet. These will be held Wednesday mornings.

CAN BE TOGETHER

If two or more youngsters want to be in the same class, applications should be sent in, together with a special request attached.

As in previous years, transportation will be provided by Vancouver Island Coach Lines.

Buses will leave from the North Ward School, next door to the Colonist building.

Tickets for eight round trips can be obtained only at the Colonist editorial offices between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday at a cost of $2.25.

All children must return on the same bus, except those who have a note from their parents, saying they are allowed to stay at the beach.

A list of classes will appear in Tuesday's Colonist.

The Time Is Ripe For Patio Eating

The move to the great outdoors is on! Whether you hold your outdoor feast on a city patio, or in a peaceful country setting, now's the time to put the grill in order, dust off the rotisserie or hibachi and get in a supply of charcoal.

Hot dogs and hamburgers are fun, but it's nice to try something else too. Our outdoor living experts suggest an elegant change-of-pace meal. The following menu, developed in our test kitchen, serves four. But it can be expanded to handle a crowd without willing hostess or taking host.

Marinate for skewered beef cubes can be made the day before, or in the cool of the morning and the 1-inch cubes of meat left to marinate four hours or longer. Allow 1/4 to 1/2 pound top round or sirloin steak per person. A platter filled with squares of green pepper, whole mushrooms, pre-cooked whole onions, and tomato slices can be set up near the grill. For four people count on using 2 to 3 peppers, 1/2 pound of large mushrooms, 4 to 6 tomatoes, and one 1-pound jar whole onions.

A few minutes before serving, spear the meat on long skewers, alternating with green pepper pieces, mushrooms, and onions. Cook over hot hibachi or grill, turning frequently and basting with marinade. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and serve with tomato slices either cold or broiled, and corn on the cob with herb butter.

Here are the recipes from French's test kitchen:

MARINADE FOR BEEF

Half cup salad oil; 1/4 cup tarragon vinegar; 3 tablespoons lemon juice; 2 tablespoons French's Prepared Mustard; 2 tablespoons soy sauce; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1 teaspoon French's Garlic Salt; 1/4 teaspoon French's Black Pepper; 1 French's Bay Leaf; 1 or 2 medium onions, sliced.

Combine all ingredients in order listed. Let stand several hours, or longer for flavors to blend. Makes about 2 cups or enough marinade for 2 pounds top round or sirloin steak. Marinate beef cubes 4 hours or longer.

HERB BUTTER

Half cup softened butter; 1 tablespoon French's Prepared Mustard; 1/4 teaspoon salt; 1/4 teaspoon sugar; 1/4 teaspoon French's Onion Salt; 1/4 teaspoon French's Marjoram; 1/4 teaspoon French's Sweet Basil; 1/16 teaspoon French's Black Pepper; 6 ears corn.

Thoroughly blend together softened butter and mustard. Add salt, sugar, onion salt, marjoram, sweet basil, and black pepper. Let stand several hours for flavors to blend.

To prepare corn: Remove husks and silk from corn. Break each ear into 3 or 4 pieces. Drop into boiling salted water to which a teaspoon of sugar is added. Bring to a boil again. Let cook 5 or 6 minutes. Serve hot. For easy eating, spear each cob with wooden skewers to hold in hand. Spread with herb butter. 4 to 6 servings.

Canned Crepes Solve Problem

Italian cuisine is becoming increasingly popular, and more and more restaurants are offering Lasagna, Cannelloni and other forms of pasta in addition to spaghetti or linguini. Perhaps Cannelloni is the one dish that many cooks are a little leery of trying because the pasta is or can be a problem — nowadays, of course, there is an easy solution — use the canned crepes. Here is the recipe:

CANNELLONI

Eight six-inch crepes, 1/2 pound Ricotta cheese, 1/2 pound Mozzarella cheese, 2 eggs yolk, 1/4 teaspoon salt, Freshly ground black pepper, 1 cup tomato sauce, butter.

Mix cheeses with the egg yolks and season with salt and pepper. Put some of the cheese mixture on each crepe and fold the sides over each other. Lay the crepes in a shallow baking dish side by side and pour the tomato sauce over them. Dot with butter and then bake in a 400-degree oven for 10 minutes. This recipe will serve eight people if the Cannelloni is used as a first course, or four people if used as a lunch or dinner dish.

The Portuguese are strenuous users of dried codfish and have some two hundred and fifty different ways of preparing it. However, here is an Italian recipe using dried codfish which is excellent:

BACCALA ALLA VINCENNA

One pound dried codfish, 1 cup olive oil, 1 medium onion, finely chopped, 2 tbsps. minced parsley, 2 tablespoons flour, salt, pepper, 1 cup milk.

Soak the codfish in water to cover for at least 10 hours. Heat the oil in a casserole and saute the onions until golden. Add the parsley and the flour and mix well. Add the cod, pepper and milk. Stir well and bake in a 300 degree oven until all the milk is absorbed — approximately 30 minutes.

COMING OF AGE With Sally Hamilton

By SALLY HAMILTON
A holiday is one of the best ways I know to bring fresh sparkle to living.

What if yours must be a brief holiday—even a short, short one? One day, two days or a long weekend? Everyone can't take off for a month in Europe. Very few can.

But thanks to Canada's good roads, rail and airways, it's easy to get somewhere—almost anywhere in Canada. Whatever time and money you can spare, now's the time to put it to work to recharge your batteries.

One couple, just retired, were wondering what they would use for travel money on a vacation. Then they read a bulletin on how to live it up at home. This year they will be supporting local enterprise.

An "at home" tour is easy to plan. You write down the things you would do if you travelled: went to a resort or rented a cottage. Then you make another list to see how many of these things can be duplicated in your home town or some place near.

At a resort, for instance, you would go on side trips. At home, try organizing a one-day safari by car, by bus or rail to a neighboring point of interest.

On a camping trip you would cook out. At home, a cook out over a barbecue grill (invite a visitor or two) or go to a local picnic area. Camping, you might rent a boat. If you live near water, explore the possibility of a boat ride.

Say you were planning a trip abroad. You would collect folders, read books, talk to friends, consult experts. At home, ditto: try investigating nearby places through their chambers of commerce or visitor's bureaus, or your own public library. Find out what visitors would be shown.

If a long trip is your dream, the "Go NOW—pay later" plan offered by Canadian airlines and railways may be tailored for you. Under this plan, for instance, you could travel by air from Vancouver to Toronto and return; and take a year to pay for it.

By economy class the fare is about $220. You would pay $22 down and the balance in 12 monthly instalments of $17 each. (By the way, these flights are much in demand so reserve well ahead.)

Are you saying, "That's all very well for some. I'm stuck here!"? All right, what would happen if you were sick? There would be help. This is a way of keeping well. It's something like a good night's sleep. When you get away from home, your troubles tend to shrink.

For more holiday tips, write for Sally's leaflet "Give Yourself A Break." Address your letter to Sally Hamilton, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Tennis Not Ready For Topless Dress

By JOHN GALE
WIMBLEDON (AP) — Ted Tinling, arbiter of Wimbledon fashion, decreed today that the world's greatest tennis tournament is not quite ready for the topless dress.

"But you can't discount it as a long range prospect," said the gangling designer.

"It's not so long since my grandmother thought unclothed table legs were indecorous and look how times have changed."

On the first day of the Wimbledon championships, the topless dress was nowhere to be seen among the female spectators or competitors.

"I think there are future possibilities in the field of the transparent top," said Tinling, a Second World War British intelligence officer who has been stirring up fashion controversy at Wimbledon ever since he launched Gussie Moran's lace panties 15 years ago.

His most daring departures this year have been reserved for Italy's lovely Lea Pericoli—once the subject of official wrath at the championships for wearing shocking pink panties beneath her tennis dress.

WITH FEATHERS

Tinling has fitted her out with a raja-suit—trousers and long shirt—and a dress with a skirt of ostrich feathers.

be seen in the plumage Wednesday, traditionally ladies day of the two-week championships. Seventy-five groups of four ostrich feathers have gone into the garment.

Tinling doesn't think it will catch on, but said: "The novelty is the thing. If you had 130 women running around these courts dressed identically, the place would be dead in five years' time."

Tinling is dressing nearly 50 per cent of the women players here and five of the eight women seeds.

"This year, there are more lace trimmings and more fancy-cut necklines," he said. "Since Wimbledon now bans color, I must find something for people to look at."

BUSY MOTHER

CLEVER HOSTESS

You can be both with a home freezer!

As a busy mother, you'll shop when you want to, not when you have to. Right there you'll save dozens of shopping trips each year. And feed your family better while you do. Brighter, more varied meals—with less planning and preparation time—are a year-round bonus when you own a home freezer. (So are the savings you make by taking advantage of your supermarket's specials. By buying in quantity at low seasonal prices!) As a clever hostess, amaze guests or drop-in visitors with a treasury of ready-prepared dinners, canapés and snacks. Just double up on casserole or dessert recipes on days when you have the time. Then store half in your freezer for days when you don't. And presto! Instant hospitality at a moment's notice. What's more, you'll enjoy your own parties for a change. Clever you! Whatever your way of life—it's better with a home freezer. And to prove it, right now your neighborhood "Freezin' Season" appliance dealer is featuring today's newest upright, combination and chest type freezers. See him tomorrow and learn why...

THE FREEZIN' SEASON IS HERE!

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: A terrible tragedy occurred in our city recently. My husband was the physician who attended four little fire victims. They ranged from three years of age to 10.

The parents were "down the street" at a party when the house caught fire. They saw nothing wrong in leaving the youngsters alone. Three of the children died. The 10-year-old survived, but he is so broken-hearted and bitter that he refuses to speak to his parents.

What manner of madness seems to have gripped parents these days? You need only to read the newspapers to know how frequently youngsters are left alone and burn to death. If the gay party is so important, isn't it worth the price of a sitter?

I am asking for your help,
Ann Landers. You have the largest reading audience in the world. Please alert thoughtless parents to the fact that children under 12 need an adult in the house whether they are asleep or awake.

Most parents accept this responsibility gladly. If a tragedy does occur, they can face God and each other without guilt—
A MOTHER, TOO.

Dear Mother: Here it is for all parents to see. I hope with you that they will heed the warning and not have to learn the ghastly lesson first hand.

Dear Ann Landers: For 12 years my husband has been having high school type romances. (He calls them
"friendships.")

I have tried to be a sweetheart as well as a wife, but he doesn't seem to notice. Every new job and new location (he has had four) brings him new "friends."

I can't leave for three good reasons, so please don't suggest it. I've tried to talk to him about the problem but he insists it is purely friendship.
Once he said, "If you don't stop making such ridiculous accusations, I'm going to live up to your low opinion of me."
So you see he has me cornered.

I've tried smiling and pretending not to notice, but my stomach is tied up in knots.
What can I do? — SMILING ME

Dear You: Unless you have solid evidence (you gave none in your letter) assume that he is faithful.

If you have the goods on him, however, and you can't leave for "three very good reasons" then knock off the complaints, turn on the heat and hope he grows out of his adolescence and into manhood
enough to notice.

MOTHERS' UNION
The annual general Diocesan Council meeting of the Mothers' Union will be held on Monday,
June 29, at Shawigan Lake School. There will be a service at 10:30 a.m. in the School Chapel, conducted by the Ven. R. E.
Horsfield and Rev. E. Scott.
Guest speaker will be Rev. J.
Matthews of Chelmsford.

Confidentially yours,
BARBARA BRENT

MONTREAL, June 25th — If you are hesitating about the cost of that "dream" vacation this year, there's good news for you at the BANK OF MONTREAL. The B of M Family Finance Plan can supply the ready cash to take the worry out of your vacation plans. A low-cost, life-insured F.F.P. loan is the perfect answer to the problem of how to pay for the things you want now! (Yes, even a new car or boat). Convenient monthly payments can be fitted to your budget. So don't hesitate a minute
— see the people at your neighbourhood branch about the B of M Family Finance Plan and you'll be on your way rejoicing come vacation time.

TART, TENDER LIBBY'S SAUERKRAUT and grated cheese combine for one of the most heavenly toppings that ever covered a piece of toast.

SUPPER SNACKS
1 1/2 oz. can (2 cups) Libby's Sauerkraut, drained
1 Cup grated sharp cheddar cheese (1 1/2 lb.)

3 Tsp. dry mustard 4 slices bread
Cut sauerkraut with scissors into thin strips. Mix with grated cheese, mustard and Worcestershire sauce. Toast bread lightly on both sides; spread one side with cheese mixture. Sprinkle with sauerkraut and cheese. Bake in 350° oven for 10 minutes or until cheese is melted. 16 servings.

For your FREE Sauerkraut folder write: Sauerkraut Recipes,
Dept. CV 11, Libby's, Montreal & Libby of Canada Limited, 330
Richmond Street, Montreal, Ontario.

LET ME TELL YOU A TRAVELLER'S SECRET... those "in the know" prefer to visit Europe in September and October. Yes, this is the season when the Continent comes to life... when the Partisans are in Paris, the Romans are in Rome, and Europe is full of fun and festival.
Fly BOAC to Europe — in the "sophisticated season"... you can still save with BOAC 21-day Economy Excursions! Lowest jet fares ever! Only $29.99 Montreal to London round-trip, for example. Seats are filling fast — better book now! See your BOAC Travel Agent.

BRAND NEW ON THE MARKET — and a bright idea, too — is a gentle new laxative for children.
FEENA-MINT CHILDREN'S MINT LAXA-TIVE comes in attractive pink pastille form, can be chewed or sucked. Children's Mint Laxative has been developed by Pharmacia (Canada) Ltd., the makers of the well-known Feena-Mint. If your tykes need a laxative now and then (particularly during travel and vacation time when their normal routine is upset) and they rebel against ordinary forms, I suggest you try this Feena-Mint Children's Mint Laxative. It is gentle, predictable
... and tastes good! Available at your neighbourhood drug store.

DON'T YOU JUST LOVE BEING PAMPERED? Most women do.
That's how it is the minute you settle down on a CANADIAN NATIONAL train. Take the sleek Super Continental, for instance, with its lovely lounge car and other travel tipping features. The special "play time" hour for the children, twice a day, when they play games and have fun. (And you can take it easy!) And babies get "absolutely" service from CN, too. (Friendly attendants will heat baby's bottle for you.) Make it a family fun trip. You'll love the pampered feeling when you go Canadian National — I do!

LET'S HAVE STRAWBERRY SHORTCAKE for dessert! This is a "family demand" that's easy to satisfy when you make your shortcake with MONARCH TEA-MIX. For always-perfect results — just follow the recipe on the back of the new package. Try the other package recipes, too, and I know you'll agree that Tea-Mix makes light work of baking. It's an all-purpose mix that can be used for any number of family favourites. Ask for Tea-Mix at your grocer's... in the 10-ounce size with handy pre-measured one-cup envelopes — or the big 37-ounce size with convenient pouring spout.

Married in Montreal

The Chapel, Divinity Hall,
McGill University, Montreal, was the setting for the recent marriage of Sharon Elizabeth
Piow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
Arthur H. Piow, 3301 Cedar Hill Road, and Mr. Nicholas
Russell, Bushey Heath, Hertis, England.

Mr. Russell proposed the toast to the bride at a reception which followed at the home of friends in Montreal. Silver vase of pink rosebuds and lily-of-the-valley topped the three-tiered cake centring the bride's table.

Following a honeymoon man-ing to eastern townships in Quebec, the couple returned to Montreal where the groom is presently employed in foreign news service with the CBC. Mr. and Mrs. Russell will leave for England in September where from England.

Mr. Russell will enter the University of London for postgraduate work. Among out-of-town guests were the bride's parents from Victoria, the groom's parents and sister, Miss Juliet Russell, England in September where
from England.

To Visit City

Japanese Warships

Four Japanese destroyers, with a complement of 1,180 men including 161 officer cadets, will arrive at HMC Dockyard on Aug. 26 for a four-day visit.

In a letter to Mayor R. B. Wilson, Rear-Admiral W. M. Landymore said that the ships of the Japanese training squadron will be Tezumi, flagship of Rear-Admiral Kazutoshi Kihara, the Ariake, Yugare and Mahanami. During a part of their stay in port the ships will be open to the public.

The Japanese embassy in Ottawa has asked that the officer cadets be provided with a tour of the Canadian Services College at Royal Roads.

All members of the crew will be taken on bus tours and officers and men will be provided with entertainment by the RCN establishment here.

Admiral Landymore suggests that the city might like to give a dinner, followed by a cabaret-style entertainment for the officer cadets such as was given in 1958 for 50 visiting Japanese cadets.

During the visit of the squadron Admiral Kihara will call on Mayor Wilson.

New Members

Policemen Promoted In Saanich

Three policemen have been promoted and three new constables added to the Saanich force, Chief W. A. Pearson announced yesterday.

Cpl. Leslie Ledson, a member of the force since 1946, has been promoted to sergeant; Const. Ronald Coulter has been promoted to the rank of detective and acting detective C. R. Truett is confirmed as detective.

NEW MEN

Newcomers to the force are William R. Crossman, formerly patrolman with the B.C. Toll Authority; Gary C. Cleland, former Edmonton policeman, and William Nixon.

The new constables bring the Saanich police force staff up to 34, including five civilian employees.

ONE MORE

There is still one more promotion to the rank of sergeant to be made.

'Y' Planning Cornerstone Ceremony

Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes will place the official cornerstone at the new YWCA building on Thompson Street off Quadra at 11 a.m. Friday.

The Archbishop H. F. Fort will give the invocation.

Guests of honor will include Mrs. Pearkes; Mrs. K. O. Wright, president of the Y; H. R. Stephen, chairman of the campaign; Ald. Robert Baird, representing Mayor Wilson; D. R. Abbott, past president of the Y; and J. F. Caniffie, chairman of the building committee.

The RCMP band will be in attendance.

Tentative date for the completion of the $1,400,000 building is Sept. 1, 1965. A clean-up campaign—last ditch attempt to raise the last $237,000 needed to open the building debt-free—will begin Friday.

Hiding Place Found By Thieves

Entry was forced and $100 taken from Paul's Crown House on Douglas Street early Tuesday morning.

Police say the lock on the furnace room was slipped and the thieves crawled through the plumbing space and pushed out a panel leading to the men's washroom.

HIDING PLACE

A cloth bag containing $100 was taken from its hiding place and $1 in change from another room.

The break-in was discovered by a waitress when she came on shift at 6:30 a.m. and the janitor said he had noticed the broken panel some time earlier.

SCARED OFF

Two youths, apparently attempting to break into the Tasty-Freeze store at Tolmie and Quadra just after 1 a.m. yesterday, were scared off by the approach of Andy Jack, of 1080 Tolmie. Two people have been picked up for questioning.

Big Icebreaker Job Awarded

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian Vickers Limited, Montreal, has been awarded a $18,719,075 contract to build a triple-screw icebreaker for the Canadian coast guard which will be the most powerful conventional-powered icebreaker in the world.

The transport department announced Monday delivery of the 13,300-ton ship, to see service in the Arctic and eastern Canadian waters, is scheduled for the fall of 1967.

No Offence Clerk Pays Court Cost

A woman who withdrew a criminal charge just as a case was about to come to trial was ordered to pay $5 court costs yesterday by Magistrate William Ostler.

Elizabeth Bednarski had signed an information charging John Thompson with fraudulently obtaining lodgings at the Dorle Motel.

She appeared before the magistrate and said that since laying the information she had heard the accused's explanation and restitution had been made, and she wished to withdraw the charge.

"And you got your money back," added Magistrate Ostler, ordering costs to be paid.

Closest Approach to Big War Since Korea

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON (AP) — The United States appears facing its closest approach to a general war in Asia since the close of hostilities in Korea in 1953. President Johnson has appointed his highest-ranking soldier to take charge in the hottest of the Asian hot spots — South Viet Nam. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor knows his way around in these parts, and there is no doubt he is coming pri-

has been overwhelmingly military — especially at the working level, in the field. With some small anticipated increases, U.S. civilian field workers will number a little more than 200 men and women. Of these, roughly 150 are field representatives of the U.S. aid

'Taylor Won't Win'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia declared Wednesday that Gen. Maxwell Taylor's appointment as ambassador to Saigon would not avert defeat for American "aggression" in South Viet Nam.

U.S. Bombing Charged

Mike Denies Ban on Film

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson flatly denied Wednesday that he or anyone on his behalf stopped the publicly-owned CBC from televising the controversial film on a day in the life of the prime minister.

He spoke in a noisy Commons as the CBC board of directors met here to decide whether to show the film Mr. Pearson after all, in response to opposition demands and a personal request Friday by Mr. Pearson.

ACCUSATIONS
The prime minister replied in the continuing debate on interim supply to accusations by Conservatives Tuesday night that he had deceived the House and told only half-truths about the film. One Conservative had gone as far as to call one Pearson statement "lies."

BUT THAT WAS NOT THE END OF IT. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker immediately resumed the attack on the government, saying that while Mr. Pearson denied censorship, what the prime

CBC-TV Ignores Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Joseph Elgan (PC-Springfield) asked why the CBC national television news Tuesday night contained no reference to a stormy debate in which the opposition called for the resignation of Prime Minister Pearson and accused the government of censoring the CBC programs.

He asked State Secretary Lamontagne whether the government or the CBC management had taken action to "suppress" news about the debate. In Toronto, W. H. Hogg, CBC's chief news editor, said in a telephone interview Wednesday that the Commons debate was "not regarded as especially newsworthy" by the editors of the national television news.

A Victoria youth, skin-diving under the Gorge Bridge on Tillicum, found a two-foot long army mortar bomb about 2 p.m. yesterday.

Brian Shaw, 422 Obed, Victoria high school student, was swimming with friends at the time.

LIVE BOMB
The bomb is believed to have been live and dangerous.

The bomb was taken to the RCN diving school at Colwood by Lieut.-Cdr. Earl Thompson and Lt. John Roland.

THREAT TO CHILDREN

Lieut. Cdr. Ward Palmer, officer in charge of the diving school, warned that anyone who has bombs or cartridges or shells, dangerous explosives of any kind, should not unload them in the bush, under bridges or on beaches, but should inform the police or the navy.

"One of the main dangers of disposing casually of such material is that they get into the hands of playing or exploring children," he said.

UNIONS THREATEN MASS SLOWDOWN

A work-to-rule policy which likely will mean a mass slowdown of all MacMillan, Blodell and Powell River Ltd. operations in B.C. was recommended at a big labor meeting in Vancouver yesterday, the Colonist learned last night.

Representatives of every union having a contract with the giant lumber firm chose the slowdown as one of five steps aimed at forcing the company into settling its 37-day-old office workers' strike in the Alberni Valley.

GENERAL STRIKE OUT

The meeting in the Vancouver IWA hall decided not to call a general strike against Mac-Powell or recommend extension of the office strike to other divisions.

The Colonist learned this stand was taken for four of six

The meeting was called by Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, after a recent conference involving Mr. O'Neal and other provincial labor leaders in Nanaimo.

The slowdown would involve 8,000 workers in a pulp mill at Harmac, sawmills in Chemainus, Vancouver and New Westminster, paper mill in Powell River, plywood plant in Vancouver, shingle mill in Burnaby and many scattered logging operations.

The other four steps:

• Curtailment of all overtime at Mac-Powell operations.

• Establishment of a panel of speakers to go throughout B.C. to give the unions' stand on the office strike and its key issue, union security.

• A one-day emergency conference of the B.C. Federation of Labor within two weeks.

• A "gigantic" drive to pour money into the Alberni Valley for the strikers and thousands of others idled by the walkout.

It was understood these recommendations will have to be approved by members of the unions represented yesterday.

Speakers at the meeting said most of the blame for the crippling strike is due to the Social Credit policy of "creating large forest monopolies."

WONT STEP IN

They said there is provision in the labor law for the government to step in and settle such a strike, but the government won't do it because of "pressure" from the company.

Port Alberni Mayor:

Mediation Best Hope

Mediation offers the best chance of solution in the "steadily deteriorating" Alberni Valley strike situation, Port Alberni's Mayor Les Hammer said here yesterday.

After a 15-minute meeting with Labor Minister Peterson, he said he was optimistic about the outcome of the first direct negotiations in 17 days.

NEW BID

Mr. Peterson announced a new bid to settle the strike would be made in Vancouver today or Friday.

Meanwhile, the Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent a telegram to Premier Bennett asking him to intervene in the strike and called the need "urgent."

Mayor Hammer said he wants to remain neutral on the strike issue but had passed on to the minister some of his private views.

MAY BE HELPFUL

Mr. Peterson said the information he received "may prove to be of some assistance in our efforts to obtain a settlement."

"This is another disaster, to my mind 10 times worse than the tidal wave disaster," Mayor Hammer said.

"That was bad enough. But coming on top of one another it is straining the patience and

Racial Pot Bubbles

From AP, UPI

Trouble-shooter Allen W. Dulles flew into trouble-wracked Mississippi Wednesday and immediately conferred with Governor Paul Johnson at Jackson about the baffling disappearance of three civil rights workers.

Dulles, sent to the Mississippi capital by President Johnson, met with the governor "to discuss law enforcement," while heavily-armed posse searched for the missing trio.

The search was halted by a late afternoon thunderstorm and recall of officers to Philadelphia, Miss., to prevent violence when a group of integrationists appeared there to confer with officials.

Meanwhile, nearly 2,000 members of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People marched double file on the U.S. justice department in Washington to demand stronger federal intervention in Mississippi.

At St. Augustine, Fla., about 100 Negroes marched into a parade of 300 white segregationists resulting in a tense jeering confrontation that narrowly skirted violence as hard-pressed police forced a path through the whites for the Negroes.

Tshombe Going Home

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Former Katanga president Moïse Tshombe arrived Wednesday from Madrid on what he said was a return trip to his "fatherland," the revolt-stricken Congo.

"I have always said I would return and now I am returning to my fatherland," Tshombe said at Brussels airport.

Birth Control Devices Favored

VANCOUVER (CP) — The governing general council of the Canadian Medical Association, with at least tacit support from its Roman Catholic members, Wednesday went on record as favoring birth control devices for those who wish them.

The council called for amendment to the much-broken section of the Criminal Code which forbids giving advice on birth control or selling or advertising birth control devices.

The council, made up of representatives from each province including Quebec, did this by passing a recommendation from its committee on maternal welfare.

Dr. L. J. Harris of Toronto, chairman of the committee, said there was little debate from the almost 200 council members.

And the committee approved the change despite the fact that some of the members are of the Roman Catholic Church which is opposed to birth control devices.

He said he personally thinks birth control pills "are a boon and carry little danger and

Two Moves by Chamber On Freight Rate Hike

Vancouver Man Heads Central Credit Union

COURTENAY — John Lucas of Vancouver has been re-elected by directors of the B.C. Central Credit Union to his fifth term as president. It was announced yesterday.

The central credit union organization, which held a one-day convention Tuesday, also elected Ian Strang of Vancouver as vice-president.

Courtenay Parley Told:

Separatism Problem For Credit Unions

COURTENAY — Separatism is a big problem in credit union circles as well as nationally, yesterday's guest speaker told the opening session of the B.C. Credit Union League convention.

R. J. Neville of Weyburn, president of the Saskatchewan Credit Union League, said the greatest danger to the credit union movement is internal strife.

"We have our separatism, too," he said, adding a warning that bank and finance companies are well organized and credit unionists must strive for unity to meet this and other competition.

The 200 delegates spent most of the day listening to reading of the directors' and league services committee reports. Today they will discuss these reports and elect officers.

Staff Shortage Alarms Board

COURTENAY — School trustees here have expressed concern over a district teacher shortage.

District Superintendent C. E. Ritchie told a school board meeting this week about a dozen teachers still are needed for next fall, providing there are no more resignations.

The board accepted two resignations at the meeting and made eight appointments. The most pressing need is for primary teachers and specialists.

RETARDED CENTRE

Trustees decided on a major departure for this area — a kindergarten for retarded children — after hearing a delegation from the Comox Valley Association for Mentally Handicapped Children.

Association president Henry Lunn and members Mrs. Amy Surgeoner and Mrs. Joan McDonald were given a grant under B.C. legislation of half the usual sum for a school-age retarded child, about $27 a month.

The board learned there may be six retarded children for kindergarten this fall. It agreed to bring two of them by bus from Fanny Bay, providing the bus has enough room and the students are supervised satisfactorily.

The association already runs a day school and an adult recreational workshop.

School Vote Delayed Till Fall

DUNCAN — A proposed $700,000 school building referendum will not go before ratepayers of the Cowichan district until the fall, trustees disclosed yesterday.

The trustees learned at a committee meeting Monday night the vote would be postponed because the education department has opposed the designation of some items as shareable costs.

COMPROMISE

The department originally insisted the district should pay the full cost but the trustees said a compromise was worked out recently in a meeting with Education Minister Peterson.

The referendum will allow for expansion of Mount Prevost secondary school and will provide vocational courses and other items.

DUNCAN — Directors of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce voted yesterday to take two steps in connection with the freight rate increase sought by seven Vancouver Island transport companies.

The directors named a special committee, chaired by Ian Coburn, to approach the Public Utilities Commission, and also decided to ask the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island to take action.

Results of both moves will be passed on to Duncan city council.

MUST ACT SOON

Something must be done soon, one director said, since the trucking firms asked that the increase go into effect July 1.

Director Archie Stevenson said the increase will mean a special hardship for the island's farmers.

The directors learned the long-standing problem of the billboard at the southern approach to Duncan will be solved within a week.

The billboard, which lists the area's shopping facilities, has been deteriorating for some time. Downtown merchants have decided to renovate it after the Chamber recently told them the sign would be torn down if the $250 repair bill wasn't paid.

SIGN FOR REPAIR

The directors also agreed in principle to pay $68 for a canvas sign 50 feet long and 32 inches wide, to be strung across the highway in the fall to direct visitors to the Cowichan fall fair.

The highways department will be asked for permission to raise the sign. If it refuses, another sign will be mounted at the overpass where the Koksilah logging road meets the highway.

Committees were appointed as follows:

David Pollock, finance; Denis Hurley, George Haskins and Gordon Sutherland, tourist trade; Sam Keeble and John Kirsitak, membership; Pat Rogers, publicity; Joe Kusyk and Dick Bonies, retail; Ian Coburn, industrial; Will Dohson, education and national affairs; Al VanSacker, civic affairs; Don Dowdley, recreation, and Mr. Stevenson, agriculture.

The directors also decided to change their business year to a fiscal year, and agreed to have the Victoria Chamber represent them at the Canadian Chamber convention in Winnipeg in September.

Grant Slated For Gallery

A $4,300 grant will be given by the Canada Council to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria to support its activities during 1964-65, it was announced in Ottawa yesterday.

The money is to be used for such things as special exhibitions, children's services, a lecture program and publication of a handbook of the gallery collection.

Ferry Launching Spurs Demands

Maffeo Would Quit To Promote Bridge

B.C. Action Asked On Island Park

By LYNNE WALLER

NANAIMO — Mayor Pete Maffeo yesterday offered to resign, if he has to, to act as chairman of a committee which would build a bridge to Newcastle Island.

He spoke at a city hall meeting shortly after the provincial government's new Gabriola Island ferry Westwood, named for the former local MLA and cabinet minister, made its inaugural run.

Mayor Maffeo congratulated Highways Minister Gagliardi on the ferry and then challenged the government to "go one step further" and underwrite the cost of the bridge to Newcastle Island.

"Even if it meant vacating my seat as mayor," he told the city hall meeting, "I offer my services as chairman of a committee to draft a campaign to ask the government to underwrite bonds or debentures to build the bridge."

He said he was concerned because the government had not developed the island as a tourist attraction since it was handed over by the city in 1961. The city bought the island from the CPR in 1955 for $150,000.

The mayor said the Westwood and the recently-built Queen of Nanaimo show the government's interest in the area.

At the ferry ceremony, he told Mr. Gagliardi he would like to be able to attend the opening of the bridge in 1967, not as a potential project but because that year was the minimum time for construction.

Open to Everyone

MLA Dave Stupich also said he favored underwriting of the bridge cost by the government.

At the city hall meeting, Mayor Maffeo stressed that Newcastle Island should not be considered an attraction just for the Nanaimo area. He said it should be open to all tourists and could be developed into a second Stanley Park.

He said he has been holding back on the bridge problem for years but now he is "taking the gloves off."

"The time is here," said the mayor. "If we fail, we fail, but at least we're making an effort."

First Time in Canoe

Mrs. Westwood cut the ribbon leading to the gangplank after Mrs. Norman Poyner christened the Westwood during the morning ceremony.

Mrs. Poyner, 77, first went to Gabriola in a canoe 63 years ago. She and her husband live at Maple Wharf on the south end of Gabriola.

The Westwood replaces the 43-year-old Mv Eena which carried a maximum of 80 passengers and 10 to 12 cars on the regular daily runs. The new vessel will carry up to 150 passengers and 15 to 18 cars and has special accommodation for freight trucks.

Other views of city councilors:

● Ald. Douglas Greer said the government failed in its promise of "substantial development" within five years of the 1955 takeover.

● Ald. Bus MacDonald suggested council introduce a motion to ask the government to return Newcastle Island to the city, and then the city would invite private enterprise to take part in the development.

● Ald. John Cook said, "We handed that island over to the government with tremendous optimism, but I never too hopeful we would ever get a bridge."

Islander Draws Horse in Sweep

Irish sweepstake tickets were drawn in Dublin last night on 15 of the 30 horses eligible for the Irish Derby Saturday, and only one Vancouver Island name is on the list.

A Nanaimo resident using the non-de-plume Miasie had ticket SJK 67033 drawn on the outsider, Master Buck.

Tickets will be drawn today on the other 15 horses, including Santa Claus, the favorite at the prohibitive odds of 4 to 5. Only 17 tickets were held in Canada, 23 in Western Canada and 10 in B.C. last night, all well below normal.

SMALLER SWEEP

This second Irish sweepstakes of the year was smaller than usual because of the reduced field of eligible entries. In the first sweepstakes this year, on the Grand National, tickets were drawn on 80 eligible horses.

Late scratches are expected to reduce the number of actual starters Saturday to about 15.

NELSON TICKET

Second favorite is U.S.-owned Dilettante, which was drawn by a resident of Nelson, B.C. First prize will be $150,000, second prize $80,000 and third prize $30,000. Holders of tickets non-starters and also-runs will receive about $1,100 each.

Cudgels High For Lady Rose

PORT ALBERNI — A delegation from the Alberni and other areas of the west Island coast expects to see two capital ministers in Victoria next week in its fight to keep Mv Lady Rose on the Alberni-Bamfield run.

Mrs. Edna Souther, president of the Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce, announced late Tuesday meetings likely will be arranged with Highways Minister Gagliardi and Recreation Minister Klamann.

PROBLEM MENTIONED

The arrangements are in the hands of Sam Lane of Esquimalt, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island.

Mayor Les Hammer of Port Alberni is believed to have mentioned the problem of the Lady Rose when he was in Victoria yesterday to talk to Labor Minister Peterson.

Alberni Marine Transportation, operator of the Lady Rose, has been notified by the highways department that a $1,900 a month subsidy will be discontinued this month.

Unofficial reports say the subsidy is being removed because of completion of the Alberni-Bamfield road. Residents of the area say the road is not in good enough shape to carry the Lady Rose's normal passenger and freight load.

Mrs. Souther said the delegation will be made up of Chamber and Twin Cities representatives, along with delegates from logging firms with operations in Alberni Inlet and Barkley Sound, and representatives from Uchelet and Bamfield.

Route of Haidas

Anacortes Chamber Favors Island Plan

NANAIMO — Officials of the Anacortes, Wash., Chamber of Commerce announced yesterday they will support the tourist "Route of the Haidas," being promoted by Northern Pacific Coastways Association.

The announcement was made during a special meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island in the Nanaimo Chamber office.

PLEASANT SURPRISE

Marvin Mackie, president of the Anacortes group, said news of the route "came as a pleasant surprise . . . for our own selfish reasons as well as everyone else's, we would all like to see this thing happen."

Local Chamber head Dick Bond, vice-president of Northern Pacific Coastways, said the association is interested in expanding its membership and has arranged a meeting of Anacortes Chamber representatives to Bellingham from Ketchikan.

FUTURE PLANS

Future plans call for a ferry terminal at Port Hardy on the northern tip of the island but at present the only access to Port Hardy is over logging roads, opened on weekends only.

The Port Angeles Chamber has expressed interest in the route while the Bellingham Chamber is interested in expanding its membership and has arranged a meeting of Anacortes Chamber representatives to Bellingham from Ketchikan.

FREIGHT BOON

"Shed a Tear For Vancouver"

NANAIMO — "Shed a tear for Vancouver," Island Publicity Bureau director Alan Maclean of Victoria has advised the Island tourist trade — with tongue in cheek.

He told a meeting Tuesday of Chambers of Commerce officials and downtown merchants the new Port Mann freeway is a boon to the Island because it bypasses Vancouver city centre and goes right to the Horseshoe Bay ferry terminal.

"We got a good break," he said. "Shed a tear for Vancouver."

Mr. Maclean urged tourist-trade advertisers to stress the fact the Island is open to tourists all year, especially since 30 per cent of the tourists of 1963 came from the Prairies.

"When you think of what there is to advertise on Vancouver Island, you've got a tremendous package," he said. "We're not knocking anybody else . . . we're selling Vancouver Island."

Driver Fined, Suspended

Found guilty in Saanich magistrate's court yesterday on a charge of impaired driving, Harold Kirkham, 1090 Lodge, was fined $300 and his licence was suspended. Kirkham was arrested at 6:45 p.m. June 6 at Lodge and Saanich.

Canada's Best To Plow in B.C.

By KLAUS MUELTNER

DUNCAN — The Canadian plowing championship matches will be held in B.C. for the first time in 1966, local farm leader Archie Stevenson announced yesterday.

He said the president of the Canadian plowing match council, Alex McKenney from Ontario, looked over the site last Tuesday with the provincial council.

Mr. Stevenson was instrumental in getting the 1966 championship for B.C. by suggesting the move last September when the national match was held in Ontario.

"It will be a tremendous task to prepare the 1966 match and we shall need the two years to accomplish this," he said.

The other Island representatives are George Braithwaite of Cobble Hill and Wally Mar and Tom Mitchell, both of Saanich.

Council members on the mainland are J. J. Andrews, Robert Isbister and William Dyble, all of Chilliwack.

Blacktop Tempts Children

ALBERNI — RCMP have received complaints from motorists who object to competing with little children for the right of way on newly-paved streets in residential areas.

Fresh blacktop attracts the kiddie-car set while older children like the smooth surface for roller skating or ball practice.

Police have warned parents of the danger of accidents if the young fry are permitted to continue to play on the streets.

Extensive paving projects are in progress in both Alberni and Port Alberni.

Closest Approach to Big War Since Korea

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON (AP) — The United States appears facing its closest approach to a general war in Asia since the close of hostilities in Korea in 1953. President Johnson has appointed his highest-ranking soldier to take charge in the hottest of the Asian hot spots — South Viet Nam. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor knows his way around in these parts, and there is no doubt he is coming primarily to head a war effort that could lead to a head-on collision with Peking or even Moscow. It seems unlikely Taylor's appointment will result in ma-

for immediate changes in the balance and organization of U.S. support efforts here. Since 1961, the involvement of U.S. manpower in Viet Nam

has been overwhelmingly military — especially at the working level, in the field. With some small anticipated increases, U.S. civilian field workers will number a little more than 200 men and women. Of these, roughly 150 are field representatives of the U.S. aid

'Taylor Won't Win'

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia declared Wednesday that Gen. Maxwell Taylor's appointment as ambassador to Saigon would not avert defeat for American "aggression" in South Viet Nam.

TOKYO (AP) — Peking radio, monitored here, charged Wednesday that six U.S. planes again "bombed and strafed" the Pathet Lao territory in central Laos Tuesday killing four persons and injuring 15 others.

Mike Denies Ban on Film

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson flatly denied Wednesday that he or anyone on his behalf stopped the publicly-owned CBC from televising the controversial film on a day in the life of the prime minister.

He spoke in a noisy Commons as the CBC board of directors met here to decide whether to show the film Mr. Pearson after all, in response to opposition demands and a personal request Friday by Mr. Pearson.

ACCUSATIONS
The prime minister replied in the continuing debate on interim supply to accusations by Conservatives Tuesday night that he had deceived the House and told only half-truths about the film. One Conservative had gone as far as to call one Pearson statement "lies."

But that was not the end of it. Opposition Leader Diefenbaker immediately resumed the attack on the government, saying that while Mr. Pearson denied censorship, what the prime minister had said admitted censorship in every sense of the word.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the case should be sent to a parliamentary committee and the film's producer, Richard Ballentine, called to give evidence.

NO DOUBTS

Mr. Pearson said he had had doubts that the film should be made, but the CBC had initially offered to protect his personal privacy, ensure good taste and keep government secrets in making the film.

Neither he nor anyone on his staff had suggested the film be made. The initiative had come from CBC producer Ross Maclean who suggested a new candid-camera type of approach. The film was made by the CBC on a $35,000 contract with Intervideo Productions, headed by producer Ballentine. After editing out some parts to which the prime minister's staff objected, while leaving others in, the CBC rejected the film for public showing on grounds of technical faults.

BIG AUDIENCE

The CBC decision is expected to be announced today. Mr. Pearson said that if the film is shown, it probably will have the biggest audience in history because of the political ruckus it has generated, and he welcomed that.

The prime minister became embroiled in a wild scene in the Commons as he and Mr. Diefenbaker waved each other down, and Mr. Pearson accused one Conservative of "wallowing in the gutter."

DELETIONS ASKED

Mr. Pearson said he asked a member of his staff last January to "bring to the attention of the CBC" certain portions of the film that he wanted deleted.

These portions contained conversations that he did not want to make public, others were "inappropriate, too personal."

Mr. Pearson said the CBC made some of the requested cuts, but declined to make some others. On Jan. 23 a CBC official had written to the prime minister, asking him to set

A Victoria youth, skin-diving under the Gorge Bridge on Tillicum, found a two-foot long army mortar bomb about 2 p.m. yesterday.

Brian Saw, 482 Obed, Victoria high school student, was swimming with friends at the time.

LIVE BOMB

The bomb is believed to have been live and dangerous.

The bomb was taken to the RCN diving school at Colwood by Lieut.-Cmdr. Earl Thompson and Lt. John Roland.

THREAT TO CHILDREN

Lieut. Cmdr. Ward Palmer, officer in charge of the diving school, warned that anyone who has bombs or cartridges or shells, dangerous explosives of any kind, should not unload them in the bush, under bridges or on beaches, but should inform the police or the navy.

"One of the main dangers of disposing casually of such material is that they get into the hands of playing or exploring children," he said.

B.C. SLOWDOWN UNION THREAT

A work-to-rule policy which likely will mean a mass slowdown of all MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. operations in B.C. was recommended at a big labor meeting in Vancouver yesterday, the Colonist learned last night.

Representatives of every union having a contract with the giant lumber firm chose the slowdown as one of five steps aimed at forcing the company into settling its 37-day-old office workers' strike in the Alberni Valley.

GENERAL STRIKE OUT

The meeting in the Vancouver IWA hall decided not to call a general strike against Mac-Powell or recommend extension of the office strike to other divisions.

The Colonist learned this stand was taken for fear of ac-

The meeting was called by Pat O'Neal, secretary of the B.C. Federation of Labor, after a recent conference involving Mr. O'Neal and other provincial labor leaders in Nanaimo.

The slowdown would involve 8,000 workers in a pulp mill at Harmac, sawmills in Chemainus, Vancouver and New Westminster, paper mill in Powell River, plywood plant in Vancouver, shingle mill in Burnaby and many scattered logging operations.

The other four steps:

• Curtailment of all overtime at Mac-Powell operations.

• Establishment of a panel of speakers to go throughout B.C. to give the unions' stand on the office strike and its key issue, union security.

• A one-day emergency conference of the B.C. Federation of Labor within two weeks.

• A "gigantic" drive to pour money into the Alberni Valley for the strikers and thousands of others killed by the walkout.

It was understood these recommendations will have to be approved by members of the unions represented yesterday.

Speakers at the meeting said most of the blame for the crippling strike is due to the Social Credit policy of "creating large forest monopolies."

WON'T STEP IN

They said there is provision in the labor law for the government to step in and settle such a strike, but the government won't do it because of "pressure" from the company.

Port Alberni Mayor:

Mediation Best Hope

Mediation offers the best chance of solution in the "steadily deteriorating" Alberni Valley strike situation, Port Alberni's Mayor Les Hammer said here yesterday.

After a 15-minute meeting with Labor Minister Peterson, he said he was optimistic about the outcome of the first direct negotiations in 17 days.

NEW BID

Mr. Peterson announced a new bid to settle the strike would be made in Vancouver today or Friday.

Meanwhile, the Alberni Valley Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent a telegram to Premier Bennett asking him to intervene in the strike and called the need "urgent."

Mayor Hammer said he wants to remain neutral on the strike issue but had passed on to the minister some of his private views.

MAY BE HELPFUL

Mr. Peterson said the information he received "may prove to be of some assistance in our efforts to obtain a settlement." "This is another disaster, to my mind 10 times worse than the tidal wave disaster," Mayor Hammer said.

"That was bad enough. But coming on top of one another it is straining the patience and

Who can explain the irresistible charm that envelops a candlelit room, the feeling of rest and relaxation that slows the tempo of everyday living? Broken hearts are mended, troubled minds are soothed. Good fellowship grows warmer 'mid surroundings mellowed in a taper's soft glow. Fine wine becomes headier, the simplest meal becomes a memorable occasion when stately dinner tapers transform the table with rich, golden reflections. And the dreams and schemes of the young in heart take wing in candlelight fantasy.

A link with the past that holds a promise for the future, candlelight does, indeed, set the scene for gracious everyday living.

Yes, a candle remains a simple thing—but the chunk of wax and bit of string have become more complex and form a constant challenge to the ingenuity and research of the candle craftsmen. Yet every year many delightful new designs and shapes, in a wonderful range of colors constantly flow from their modern kettles and molds.

For candles remain the world's most flattering and universal light. As enchanting to a child of one as to a grandmother of eighty.

We do hope that when you browse in our Candle Shop you will find a number of new ways to enjoy this wonderful world of candlelight—at least as much as we enjoy our part in bringing it to you.
